BRITISH REPULSE AIR ARMADA

WIPE OUT REDS, BRICKER TELLS 37TH DIVISION

Governor Repeats Demand Names of Communists Be Made Known.

300 AT REUNION BANQUET

Burton, McSweeney Call For 'Invisible Defense' In Talks at Session.

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

Condemning Ohioans who recently signed petitions to place the Communist ticket on the ballot at the November election Gov. John W. Bricker told 37th division veterans last night at their annual reunion here, that "the time has come when Communists should be wiped out."

Repeating a demand that their names be made known, the governor declared that the time had arrived when the rights of free speech and free press should be denied Communists.

"Our first line of defense is not our army, navy or air force," he asserted, "but the heart, soul and patriotism of the people of America."

"The time has come for us to wipe out all the subversive factors that would destroy us."

He told more than 300 veterans and their wives attending the 22nd annual reunion banquet in the Mansfield-Leland hotel ballroom that they were faced today "with a double duty of patriotism," warning that "liberty is on the retreat among the nations of the world."

Urge Strong Defense.

Earlier the veterans heard Mayor Harold H. Burton of Cleveland, and former Congressman John W. McSweeney of Wooster, advocate an "invincible national defense," as well as a warning to be on guard against those who would undermine our government from within.

The veterans, part of the 900 meeting here, relived again their combat days on the French and Belgian soil during the last World war when Burton and McSweeney recalled the 37th division's days in action on the battle lines.

Burton, who brought the group greetings from the 91st division, a sister unit which fought by the 37th's side during the hectic days of 1917 and 18, recalled daily events of terrific barrages and hand-to-hand fighting from a diary he edited while in action with his division.

Burton said that an "invincible national defense is the best security that there will be no war in the United States."

He urged selective service for the nation, calling for "united speed in bringing it about."

Looking Back - - - On First Year Of World War II

Editor's Note—This is the first of two special dispatches in connection with the first anniversary of the beginning of World war II, which started Sept. 3, 1939.

By JOE ALEX MORRIS
United Press Foreign News Editor.

In the first 12 months of war, Adolf Hitler showed the world an incredible new military technique and turned most of continental Europe into a vast base for his climactic attack on the British empire.

Weapons and tactics undreamed of in the first World war enabled Nazi armed forces in one year to dominate a continent over which the armies of Napoleon and Caesar toiled for many years with less striking immediate success, but left Hitler's arch foe—Britain—unbowed.

Britain paid a heavy price for lessons in massed aerial attack, screaming dive bombing tactics, terrorization of refugee masses that blocked military maneuvers, use of fifth columnists and maneuvering of powerful mechanized forces in disregard for all the rules of outmoded warfare. But at the end of the year the British fought on and reported vast progress in reconstruction of a war machine designed to meet the Nazi-Fascist combination on every field of battle.

Hitler's first year of war was one of surprise; Britain's one of traditional blockade and static ground warfare revised by grave necessity to a system of aerial counter-attack.

Naval operations outside the blockade were secondary except that Germany's air fleet failed to destroy British sea supremacy.

From a military and strategic viewpoint, most of the victories of the year went to the Nazis and Fascists. Seven countries—Poland, Denmark, Norway, Holland, Belgium, France and Luxembourg—fell before Nazi armies that previously had occupied Austria, Czechoslovakia, Memel and Danzig.

Italy, seeking a new Roman empire around the Mediterranean, finally threw the Fascist armies into the struggle and Soviet Russia, Japan and Spain lent direct or indirect aid by land seizures, co-operation or inroads on British interests. With the conquest of France, (Continued on Page 12, Col. 1)

MOBILIZATION OF NATIONAL GUARD STARTS

President Calls 60,000 to Colors; Ohioans Not Included in Order.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — National guard mobilization was under way today, with the first contingent of 60,000 citizen-soldiers ordered by President Roosevelt to report to the colors Sept. 16 for a year's active duty with the regular army.

The presidential order, issued yesterday, meant the first peacetime tour of service for the guard in the nation's behalf since the days of 1916 when guard units were used along the Mexican border at the time of the punitive expedition of regulars across the Rio Grande in search of Pancho Villa.

The 60,000 men ordered out represent more than one-fourth of the total guard strength which the war department ultimately plans to have mobilized. The guard's present strength is given as 242,000, but resignations, discharges and elimination of the physically unfit are expected to reduce the number to 220,000, or less.

Units in 26 states were affected by Mr. Roosevelt's order. They included four full divisions—the 44th, 30th, 45th and 41st—18 coast artillery regiments, and 4 observation squadrons. The tank companies of the four divisions were excepted. Army officers said they would be told to report later.

HOLMES COUNTY MAN AMONG 24 KILLED IN OHIO

Farm Hand Struck by Hit-Skip Driver; Nation's Week-End Toll Reaches 346.

While Ohio's toll of tragic deaths for the holiday week-end climbed to 24 today, one was dead and three injured in accidents in the Richland county area. The nation's violent death toll for the week-end stood at 346.

Samuel Sampsell, 77, of Layland, Holmes county, was killed by a hit-skip driver on a county road five miles south of Killbuck early Sunday.

Sampsell was found dead by a motorist who called Holmes county authorities. Coroner W. B. Wiles stated today that Sampsell suffered a fractured skull and apparently the victim of a hit-skip driver.

Sampsell was a farm hand and lived with a nephew, Edward Sampsell at Layland. He was believed to have been returning home from Killbuck when struck.

In another violent death, William Pepper, 16, New Philadelphia, drowned in Killbuck river Sunday evening, near Layland in Coshocton county.

Witnesses said young Pepper fell into the river about 7 p. m. yesterday while fishing with his parents and friends near Alligator rock near Layland.

Struck by a city bus at the corner of Orange and Wayne streets last night, John Wynn, R. D. 4, Mansfield, was taken to General hospital where he was treated for cuts and a leg injury, then released.

Police said Wynn aparently did not see the bus while he was crossing from the west side of Wayne street to the east side. The bus was driven by Claydene C. Teeters, 369 Ohio street.

RAF Disperses Tightly Packed Nazi Formation

Actual Invasion Threatened as Aerial Warfare Reaches Decisive Phase; New Attacks on London Area Airdromes Made Today

BULLETIN

BERLIN—(AP)—Sinking of two British destroyers in the North sea by submarines was reported today by the German high command.

BULLETIN

ROME—(AP)—British air attacks on northern Italy, the island of Sardinia and Italian positions in East Africa were reported today by the Fascist high command.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—A tightly packed German formation of 50 bombers and fighters, with two huge four-motored craft in the middle of the armada, was broken up in a battle over the Thames estuary today as the beginning of a six-day period of high tides favoring invasion put Britons on guard.

The formation apparently was attempting to renew German attacks on airfields in the London area, but was dispersed before it reached the capital. Six, and possibly seven, of the German planes were reported shot down.

A 46-minute alarm was in effect in London.

The sortie followed a night of quiet in the capital and only scattered raids over the rest of the country. Seven coastal towns, however, were subjected to "chain" raids for seven hours by planes flying in relay. Little damage was reported.

The air ministry said one night attack was concentrated along the Briston channel.

In the heightening tension marking conclusion of Britain's first year at war, the British showed confidence in the RAF's ability to stand up under the German attacks and battle the Luftwaffe to a standstill.

They cited official reports that repeated heavy attacks on southeast England yesterday were thrown back in the main, with only a few planes able to penetrate to the outskirts of the London area. The capital had three daylight alarms.

This morning British fighter planes and ground defenses apparently fought off a fresh thrust at airdromes in the London area as the capital had a 46-minute alarm beginning at 8:08 a. m. (2:08 a. m., E. S. A.) At the same time Hurricanes and Spitfires battled a mass-formation assault over southeast England.

A communique announced Nazi night raiders, operating on a "comparatively small scale," had concentrated their attacks on the British channel and South Wales areas.

A number of persons were reported killed and "considerable" damage done in a South Wales town, while bombs in other parts of the country were said to have caused few casualties and little harm.

Two persons were killed in a southeast England town and others, including the mayor, were injured in an early morning attack.

12,000 Pupils Go Back To Classes This Week

Lexington Schools Open Today, Rural Buildings on Tuesday; Mansfield's Fall Term Will Start Wednesday.

Nearly 12,000 Mansfield and Richland county boys and girls started a three-day trek back to school today as the new term got under way in the city and rural districts.

First to open were the Lexington schools which disregarded the Labor day holiday and started the new year this morning.

Scheduled to open Tuesday morning are most of the county's rural schools and St. Peter's parochial school in Mansfield. The Mansfield public schools will follow Wednesday, with approximately 6,400 pupils returning to their books for a half-day session.

The Country Day school will open Wednesday morning.

Wait For Week.

Last to begin the new term will be the Shelby, Plymouth, and Sharon township schools, which are not scheduled to open until Monday, Sept. 9.

The Richland county board of education set the stage for the new term Saturday, transferring sections of two township districts as a further step in the county consolidation program.

Boyd Robinson, county superintendent, said about 26 pupils will be affected by the transfers. The county board merged the eastern side of the Washington township district with the Lucas district and in the northern part of the county transferred small sections of the former Bloomingrove township district from the Union Rural district to Shiloh.

GUARD FATALLY HURT AT O. S. R.

Dies of Wounds After Shotgun Goes Off as He Hands It To Fellow Officer.

Alfred E. Schmidt, 38, a guard at the Ohio State Reformatory, was fatally injured yesterday when a shotgun was accidentally discharged while he was handing the weapon to another guard.

The accident happened at 5:30 a. m. yesterday and Schmidt died in General hospital at 4 a. m. today. He lived at 368 West Third street.

Superintendent Arthur L. Glattke said that Schmidt was lowering the shotgun from the prison wall to another officer below. The guard was apparently holding the gun by the barrel. The charge was set off when the weapon swung against the wall.

Glattke said examination of the gun showed that the gun hit the wall with such force that the hammer was nearly broken in half.

Schmidt was rushed to the prison hospital by fellow officers. He was given first aid treatment there and then was taken to General hospital.

Suffering from a considerable loss of blood, physicians ordered a transfusion and L. A. Reddy, master of the reformatory band which was to have given a concert for the 37th division, A.E.F. veterans yesterday afternoon at Central park, responded. The band program was cancelled.

Schmidt has been employed at the reformatory since Feb. 1, 1938. He is survived by his wife and a daughter, Emma Martha. The body was removed to the Finefrock funeral home, pending funeral arrangements.

SPEAKS TODAY

Washington Speaker to Give Labor Day Talk at Park.

Mansfield was observing Labor day today in a quiet manner with downtown stores closed and with no celebration other than a brief program at Central park this afternoon.

Sponsored by the Richland County CIO council, the program this afternoon will include an address by E. E. Kennedy of Washington, D. C., a representative of the Farmers' Guild. A band concert was to open the program at 2 p. m.

While Labor day arrived with cloudy skies, the weatherman held out a hope for fair weather later in the day. The forecast was for continued fair weather tomorrow with slightly cooler temperature.

SENTRY SLAIN AT FORT HAYES

Military Prisoner Questioned In Columbus Shooting.

COLUMBUS (AP)—Lieut. E. S. Hamilton investigated today the fatal shooting by a Fort Hayes sentry of Hershel T. Spencer, 19, Charleston, W. Va., a military prisoner.

Major Harold A. Brown, post adjutant, said he would await Hamilton's report before disclosing details of the shooting. He said Private Cecil R. Mitchell of Company 3, 18th engineers at Fort Logan, Colo., had been lodged in the guard house for questioning.

Spencer, in custody for being absent without leave, was one of several work crew prisoners under Mitchell's charge.

BROTHERS KILLED

ATHENS (AP)—Joseph Leonard blamed a quarrel over a woman for the deaths of his sons, Joseph, jr., 38, and Mike, 35, in a gun fight over the week-end.

TENSE: Rumanians Continue Rioting In Cession Protest

(By Associated Press)

BUCHAREST — Armored cars and troops with fixed bayonets patrolled Rumania's principal cities today as the government took stern measures to suppress widespread bloody demonstrations against cession of northern Transylvania to Hungary under German-Italian compulsion.

Scenes of wild disorder, which began yesterday and continued through the night, reached a new pitch this morning when an angry mob broke into the German consulate at Biasov, ripped down pictures of Adolf Hitler and trampled the Nazi flag.

At Cluj, ancient capital of Transylvania and site of the most violent disturbances, the Italian consul was dragged from his residence and beaten. The city later was cut off from communication with the outside world.

(Reports from Budapest said the Hungarian government was holding 80,000 troops ready to march into Transylvania if disorders in the ceded territory should make intervention necessary.)

In Bucharest, where soldiers with machine-guns guarded approaches to King Carol's palace, the government radio broadcast a warning severe punishment would be meted out to demonstrators.

Thousands of reserve gendarmes were called to duty and scores of persons were arrested for participation in riots which resulted in (Continued on Page 12, Col. 2)

PATH: De Gaulle Gives Ally Route To Supply Army In East

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—Gen. Charles De Gaulle, self-named leader of "all free Frenchmen," claimed today to have obtained for Britain a 2,000-mile aerial "back hallway" by which they can reinforce and supply their army in Egypt.

At what appeared a strategic moment in the Mediterranean war, with Britain looking for momentary launching of an Italian drive into Egypt and Libya, De Gaulle announced all French Equatorial Africa now was enrolled under his banner to continue the war against Germany and Italy.

The roll call was completed, he said, with receipt of a cable from the governor general of Gabun province promising to adhere to his cause. The French-mandated Cameroons and the provinces of Chad, Uhangi and Middle Congo previously had made similar promises.

The British war office meanwhile announced its army in the Near East is "being prepared for offensive action" and this army now would have a solid line of communication from the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan to the west coast of Africa.

British planes, taking off from Lagos, Nigeria, on the west coast, would be able to fly over 2,000 miles of allied jungle territory to Khartoum in the Sudan, from where planes connect to Cairo, Egypt and to Red sea ports.

The territory which De Gaulle claims now is pledged to Britain's war cause consists of some 1,100,000 square miles, mostly mosquito-infested jungle land, inhabited by about 6,000,000 persons, almost all natives.

There are no railroads across it but there are well-developed airports at Fort Archambault, in Uhangi, and Fort Lamy, in Chad. The British also would acquire use of the Atlantic coast ports of Douala and Libreville.

Bold Burglar Gets Into OSR Office, Flees With Cash

The Ohio State reformatory isn't safe from burglars, Supt. Arthur L. Glattke learned today.

Glattke said the chief clerk's office in the administration building, outside the walls was ransacked early yesterday and a small amount of cash taken.

The burglary was discovered shortly after 2 a. m., the superintendent reported, when a son of one of the deputy clerks living in the administration building heard a noise in the office. Investigating he routed the burglar who fled out the main entrance of the building.

It was reported that money was taken from the desk of Chief Clerk Ben F. Owen. The office is located adjacent to the main entrance doors.

Glattke said he believed the intruder may have been a former office trusty who knew the cash was kept in the desk. He said that all trusties in the institution were in their quarters at the time.

INJURY FATAL

GALION — Injured when a stray dog knocked her to the pavement, Mrs. Gertrude A. Garberick, 59, of Galion, was dead at her home here today.

She died at Good Samaritan hospital yesterday of a skull fracture.

Police said that Mrs. Garberich was waiting for a number of automobiles to pass on Orange street when the dog, a large animal, brushed against her and knocked her over. The dog was chasing another dog at the time of the accident.

Mrs. Garberich was first taken to the home of her brother, C. A. Castle, and was later removed to the hospital.

'SAFEST STATE' APPEAL ISSUED

Bricker Urges Motorists to Protect Children.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Gov. John W. Bricker called on motorists today to make Ohio the "safest state" for school children.

"The system of marking school zones on rural state highways is the most complete used by any of the states," he said on the eve of the reopening of public schools generally.

The highway department, he said, will erect signs reading, "School zone 500 feet," near all schools and paint yellow no-passing lines each side of pavement center lines in front of schools.

THREE KILLED

KITTANNING, Pa. — (AP) — Two brothers and their sister, en route to visit relatives in Lorain, O., were killed yesterday in an automobile-school bus collision. Dead were Howard, 18, Christian, 23, and Esther Bomgardner, 24, all of Lebanon, Pa.

JOBS INCREASED

Unemployment To Be Cut In Half by Defense, Claim.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Administration economists made a Labor Day prediction today that the national defense program, with conscription included, would cut unemployment in half by next July 1, reducing the number of jobless from 9,000,000 to 4,500,000.

They said they expected a gradual, sustained pickup in industrial employment to provide jobs for more than 3,000,000 men in the next ten months.

Mobilization of the national guard and the inauguration of conscription — assuming favorable congressional action on the latter score—would account for another 1,000,000 reduction in unemployment by late spring, they estimated.

In the case of compulsory military training, the jobless total may be reduced both by conscription of unemployed youths.

320 Children Rescued After Ship Torpedoed, Eagerly Wait Next Boat

Nazis Claim Liner Hit Mine, Deny Attack By Any U-boat.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON — Three hundred and twenty children rescued from Britain's first torpedoed refugee liner were brought home today to boast to their parents that it took them only three and a half minutes to jump out of bed and get to their lifeboat stations.

Their lack of panic and their training for such an emergency brought all of them through safely, the ministry of information announced, when the ship taking them to Canada was hit last Friday night.

The vessel remained afloat, it was announced, but the children were removed in lifeboats and transferred to rescue vessels. The latter were not identified.

The ministry, which withheld the news until Sunday night, did not name the liner nor did it say where the torpedoing occurred.

(German spokesmen said it was "noteworthy" the British named neither the ship nor the place of the reported torpedoing, and added that "Germany . . . isn't in the business of sinking child refugee ships." They said no U-boat commander reported an attack on any such ship. They suggested the liner might have run into a mine.)

The ministry said the only casualty was the ship's purser, who slipped as he was entering a lifeboat and was drowned.

I'LL WAIT FOR YOU + + +

CHAPTER VII

"Asking an old maid? Well, it seems to me that love is need. When two people can't do without each other, they're in love. I've seen so much of it—people separating but coming together again because they needed each other."

"Don't go getting ideas about me. I just thought your answer would be good. I'm not in love with Norman Alexander. No falling in love at first sight for me. I'm not in love with anybody. And if there are people who think I'm still in love with Alan, they're wrong. I've outgrown that. It took a long time. It is the first love you always take too seriously and you don't ever quite forget because it hurt you and your pride. Once in her life a woman makes a complete fool of herself in order to know the answers the next time. . . ."

"What is it then that you want, Edwina?"

Her heart jerked queerly. "I was just going to tell you. These hours here have been the quietest in my whole life, I believe, I think I know what I want now. Amy, am I too young to want peace and order in my life, and security? I want to get married. And I'm willing to give to marriage more than I'll get. You know, when the most exciting things of my life were happening to me, I wasn't happy. My heart seemed to be waiting—for something else. I know now. It isn't the love I dreamed about when I was eighteen but, as I said, peace and order and security. I'd like to have children. But I've got to marry a men with money. I've got to keep the house. . . ."

"Your father doesn't need the house as a monument to him. . . ."

"I know. There are banks and churches and this hospital. More important, the memory inside of me. But I can't sell the house. I can't! I can't have any one else living in it—his house!"

Amy said dryly, "And you think young Mr. Alexander is a likely prospect?"

She was plotting again, knowing what the last plot had cost her, and she was trembling in the dark from Amy's disapproval when she said, "Most of the things I've done were out of pure selfishness. All I've had to do was to reach out and pick what I wanted—like the best apple from the trees. But this time it isn't selfishness but duty." She bit into her lip and she was conscious of the hardness of her voice. "You may think of me what you like. I know what I've got to do. I'm not going to sell the house, Amy. I'll burn it to the ground first . . ."

"You're tired, Edwina. Do you want me to give you something to make you sleep?"

"No, thanks. Not tonight."

Long after Amy had gone, Edwina was staring wide-eyed in the darkness.

Over and over Edwina had told herself that she must no longer be afraid now that she had found what she needed and, like a politician planning a campaign, she knew precisely what she must do. It occurred to her then how much she was like her father who had had the unique ability to recognize instantly that which would best serve his purpose. Patrick Burke had been able to see through confusion to the all-important center of a problem. Therein lay the reason for his phenomenal success.

Turning on the lamp beside her bed, she picked up a hand mirror and honestly scrutinized her face. It was thin, the complexion clear and olive-tinted, and from her eyes, her best feature, glowed the spirit, the fire which made it more than a merely attractive face. She could depend upon it and upon the active mind behind it and the swift grace of a healthy body. To her image she said, "I wouldn't let you down, Norman I'd be true, so true. Maybe I could learn to love you and if I didn't, I'd try to make it up to you in a thousand other ways. You're the best chance I've ever had for being decent and worthwhile and useful, all the things my father wanted me to be."

Rosy tints streaked the sky before she slept. When the nurse came in to awaken her, Edwina sat up with a start, remembering that she was going home today.

The Newton Country club was a low sprawling white building with an encircling veranda. Tonight every space in the parking area was occupied and from the open windows of the clubhouse sweet music poured. One entered into a center hall, to the left of which was a modern mirrored cocktail lounge and dining room, and to the right a vast ballroom which was crowded to capacity every Saturday until the early hours of the morning. Most people preferred the veranda since it was cool and the low divans were comfortable and the small amber lamps on the small tables gave just enough light.

Carol and Alan arrived late. Their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Webster, had insisted that they dine with them at their hotel. Mrs. Webster was a small, dark-haired girl wearing a trousseau frock of black chiffon, and she was interested apparently only in returning to her new home. Her husband, a slight, fair young man, had monopolized the conversation at dinner with stories of his college days, beginning each episode by turning to Alan, "Do you remember. . . ." More than once Alan had looked for escape at Carol who wore the simple white pique dinner frock that he liked.

Finding a place on the veranda, they ordered drinks and lighted cigarets. As Carol looked into the ballroom where the music had begun again and the vivid colors of frocks mingled with the austere black and white dinner clothes, she felt again, as she had felt many times before, that she was an outsider eyed askance by girls and parents who no doubt wondered why Newton's most promising young attorney and one of its most eligible young bachelors had chosen her, a newcomer and therefore an alien. Today people went out of their way to speak to Alan. But was it not another of the things for which she admired him that he accepted his growing importance with a cool and modest unconcern? To Carol the country club set were faces and names she could not remember from time to time unless she felt deliberately snubbed.

"Dance, Carol?" Alan asked.

"Of course, darling."

When they were dancing, he lowered his head and said, "Not very pleasant for you, having to hear the gold old days in school and Mrs. Websters' new furniture. I'm sorry."

"It's all right, darling."

"Awful mob here tonight. I hope we can get away early." Then: "Something has happened to the music. It's better than usual."

Simultaneously they saw Edwina though Alan, she knew, did not know that it was Norman Alexander with whom Edwina was dancing. Edwina wore a flame-colored frock and she looked very slender, very graceful, very lovely dancing with Norman. They were laughing; Edwina was dancing on the toes of her gold sandals so as to be tall enough to talk with him. From all sides people began to speak to her and presently a small circle formed about her. Carol heard Edwina sad, "I love being home again. Next Saturday . . . yes . . . I'll call you. . . ."

She felt Alan stiffen and his hand grow warm in hers just as Norman, looking over moving heads, saw her and smiled. A brief, passing smile was all she gave him, for Alan was guiding her away to the opposite end of the room.

"That's Norman Alexander, Alan. . . ." He had accepted the news of the picnic with interest but with no apparent disapproval. They had not spoken of it since. Looking up to him now, she saw flags of color waving in his tanned cheeks. She saw also that his eyes were a hard, intense blue.

"I might have known. . . . I didn't think she'd be here tonight. . . . Now I know we're going to leave early."

She wanted to ask: Why? There must be scores of people here tonight who were infatuated with each other five years ago! It had not emotionally unbalanced them when they met again. They had probably married others and met in a friendly fashion and played golf and bridge. . . .

Returning to the veranda, Mrs. Webster asked, "Who is the girl in red every one is talking to? Isn't she adorable?"

Carol said, "That's Edwina Burke. . . ."

"Oh, you mean the. . . ."

Carol nodded. "Yes." Alan's anger and humiliation hurt her. She sat beside him feeling that he was a cool, remote stranger. . . .

When the music began again, she danced with Mr. Webster, who insisted that she call him Tommy and who began a long discourse of praise of Alan's accomplishments. She tried to listen apreciatively, all the while seeing that Alan was still on the veranda with Mrs. Webster and that the dancers had thinned because the circle around Edwina had grown. She could not see Edwina at all, and Norman only because of his height. Hating herself when she was false, she wished that she and Alan could leave now and in the quiet of her living room she could honestly face Alan with his problem and say, "You can't run away from her. You can't avoid her. She's come back and she'll be everywhere. Oh, Alan, let it remain in the past where it belongs! It's something dead and almost forgotten—your marriage to her. Don't make us unhappy with it. We've been so happy, darling. . . ."

Returning to him, she knew that he had suffered Mrs. Webster's inane conversation rather than dance with her. An hour passed. . . . People came and went, the music paused, began again, more drinks were brought and the stubs of many cigarets were squashed in the round glass tray. Carol was conscious of Alan's effort to be congenial while she helplessly consented to answer Mrs. Webster's questions as to the exact date of her marriage, her clothes, her honeymoon plans and her apartment. It was ghastly, giving attention to the pathetically uninteresting little bride, knowing that Alan was aching to escape. Escape. . . . What had they done that they must run away from Edwina Burke? Would it be the same after she and Alan were married?

Her heart contracted and her hands were weak when she saw Norman and Edwina coming toward them. Alan's face was a tight mask though he was on his feet to greet them. Mr. Webster arose also and Mrs. Webster's face suddenly was all eyes.

It was Carol who spoke first. Finally, she never knew quite how, they were all introduced to each other and Alan and Norman were talking and Edwina turned to her.

"I've been waiting to thank you for what you did for me the day of the accident. In a crisis most people can't move. You seemed to know what to do. I appreciate very much all you did for me."

So this was Edwina Burke, outspoken, sincere, friendly, with a lovely throaty voice one would not soon forget. This was Edwina Burke who seemed wholly unlike the stories attached to her name. Here was a girl no one could fear and many could like.

Carol said, "I really didn't do anything. I just happened to be there."

"You did more than most people would have done."

At the sound of the music, Norman moved to Carol's side and said, "May I?"

There was no way graciously to refuse. She looked neither at Alan nor at Edwina when she nodded and tried to smile, and preceded him to the ballroom, wondering if she could dance and if he would notice her trembling. Right or wrong, she had left Alan with Edwina and as she placed her hand on Norman's shoulder, she thought of the people in the room not as dancers but as mere bouncing puppets. . . . The music became faster and faster. . . . You felt like this when you were going to faint. . . . She did not know that prompted her to look up at Norman but when she did, his smile eased the tension within her and the room and the people returned to normal.

"Has any one ever told you you look like Aphrodite in a white dress?" he asked. "Now don't ask me why. Every man has his own conception of Aphrodite. You happen to be mine."

"Thank you, Norman."

"You're welcome. And if you're worried about Alan and the famous Edwina, I'll worry you even more by telling you that they just went outside together. But Edwina is a marvelous girl. That's another thing about Newton that has surprised me. Edwina is a girl you can trust."

Beneath the bitterness and resentment she felt toward Alan, Edwina was seriously amused when she found herself alone with him after the Websters went in to dance.

She spoke first. "I'd like a cigaret. Shall we go outside? Much cooler out there. . . ."

Alan fumbled for his cigaret, his eyes shifting in every direction except to her defiant face. Poor Alan. . . . Yet she had found no way to refuse Norman's insistence that she meet Carol and she had thought, meeting Carol, that she would like her for a friend. Trust Alan's good taste and good sense in selecting his wife. . . .

THEATERS

Dramatic Incidents.

Rife with dramatic incidents "The Sea Hawk" is a thrilling saga of the seven seas with Errol Flynn as Geoffrey Thorpe, most feared of the privateers of Queen Elizabeth's day. Thorpe is secretly favored by the queen, but he has an unrelenting enemy in the chancellor of the court, who is in league with the queen's foreign enemies. The final duel between the two provides one of the most thrilling film finales ever filmed. This picture is at the Ohio.

Famous Adventurer.

Based upon the Book-of-the-Month club masterpiece, "I Married Adventure," the picture now showing at the Madison, presents more than 27 years of adventure and sensational effort in the jungle fastnesses of the world, because she dared to do what no woman has ever done before, Osa Johnson's life story makes an unusual picture. The co-feature is "I Stayed For Breakfast," a clever comedy featuring Loretta Young and Melvyn Douglas.

Career of Edison.

"Edison, the Man," showing at the Ritz is a story which follows the career and courtship of the famed inventor, through the arduous and trying years in which he fights ridicule and failure. Spencer Tracy and Rita Johnson head the cast with such featured players as Gene Lockhart, Lynn Overman, Henry Travis and Charles Coburn. The second attraction is "20 Mule Team" in which Wallace Berry and Marjorie Rambeau have the leads.

Drama and Comedy.

The drama which follows when a friendless girl is so ashamed of her disreputable family that she tries to discard it, weaves into a pattern of fascinating complications in "Primrose Path," which is showing at the Park, starring Ginger Rogers and Joel McCrea. The second feature is "Earl of Puddlestone," with the Higgins family in one of the popular series. James, Lucile and Russell Gleason are cast in the leading roles.

Bush Parole Best Cure For Rabbit Fever, Circus Bees

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. —(AP)— An Illinois prison inmate afflicted with "rabbit fever" is apt to try for a "bush parole," especially if he dislikes the "beagles."

If that doesn't make sense, just turn to the newly-published "dictionary of prison slang" compiled by the state division of prisons and you will find:

Rabbit fever is the temptation of a prisoner to run away when he is working outside prison walls; a bush parole is an escape from prison; and a beagle to a convict is just an ordinary sausage. Other bon mots from the 32-page dictionary are:

Biscuit—A revolver or pistol.
Circus bees—Body lice.
Meditation manor — Solitary confinement.

Railway history in Italy began in 1839, when a five-mile line was opened between Naples and Portici.

HILL-BURNS WEDDING SOLEMNIZED SUNDAY

Dr. Grover Swoyer Officiates for Quiet Nuptial Ceremony Performed Before Altar of First Lutheran Church.

AT 2:30 P. M. YESTERDAY Miss Radene Elanor Hill, 25 Wolfe avenue, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold H. Hill, came up the aisle of the First English Lutheran church to exchange her nuptial vows with Earl Otis Burns, jr., son of Mr and Mrs. Earl Burns, sr., 336 North Bowman street. The altar before which Dr. Grover E. Swoyer read the nuptial ceremony was banked with palms and ferns.

The former Miss Hill wore a white chiffon gown and matching sandals and a headpiece and corsage of Souvenir roses and gypsophilia. She was attended by her husband's sister, Miss Geraldine Burns, who wore a light blue chiffon dress and a headpiece and corsage of Briarcliff roses and delphinium.

Richard Burns, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man.

Mrs. Hill was attired in a black crepe afternoon dress with black and white accessories, while Mrs. Burns wore a soldier blue crepe frock.

A reception was held at the family home for 40 guests following the afternoon wedding. Garden flowers were used throughout the house, and the bride's table was attractively decorated with a cake and flowers.

Upon their return early next week from a short northern trip Mr. and Mrs. Burns will be at home at 438½ North Bowman street.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Burns attended Mansfield Senior high school. She is employed at the F. W. Woolworth company, and Mr. Burns is an employe of the Tappan Stove company.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Roy Myers and sons, Donald and William, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Myers, all of Shelby.

Informally Speaking...

By MARIANNE

Sept. 2, 1940.

Lucy, dear:

Are you having a happy holiday? I certainly hope so, because this is about our last national holiday until Thanksgiving. This day is usually a busy one for everybody, but as I had some rather important news to tell you about, I thought I'd better take a few minutes off to do so this morning.

Marianne

We're going to lose some popular members of our younger set here in town this week. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Howard Yarnell are moving to Springfield. . . . He will leave Wednesday to take over his duties as district superintendent of the National Life and Accident Insurance company in that city. . . . And Mrs. Yarnell is planning to go down with her young daughter, Sally Jo, as soon after that as possible. . . . Of course we all think it's grand about Howard's promotion and we do wish them luck—but we certainly hate to see them go.

Yesterday we had to bid goodbye to another Mansfielder—Kenneth Mabee. . . . He's a salesman for the Tappan Stove company, you know, and he's been transferred to a new territory—all the way down to Florida, with headquarters in Orlando.

And speaking of folks going away, Jeannette Weaver is leaving today for Cleveland, where she will take a course of study at the Dyke Commercial school. . . . In fact she went up and enrolled last week—returning home Friday for the holiday weekend. . . . A graduate of Mansfield Senior high school in June, Jeanette has been working part-time in Ritter's during the summer months. . . . You probably recall that her sister, Mary, attended Ohio university in Athens following her graduation from Senior high about two years ago, and in October, she also will go up to Cleveland to begin nurses' training at St. Luke's hospital.

MARTHA GIFFIN is leaving us today for another school year too. . . . She's going down to Lebanon, where she will resume her teaching duties. . . . Martha has been instructing art in the primary grades of the Lebanon public schools ever since her graduation from Miami university, but she always spends her summer vacations here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl G. Giffin.

Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Place have gone up to their cottage at Indian river in Northern Michigan for a vacation. . . . Their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Linham, plan to drive up to join them tomorrow, remaining until the end of the week. . . . The Linham's young son, Ted, is going along, and he's anticipating a look at some deer—which he's sure will be Santa Claus'.

A LONG-AWAITED vacation is the one which Bob Beard and Francis VonDerahe are taking now. . . . They left this weekend for California, where they'll stay for the entire month of September. . . . Driving west, they're planning to stop-off at all the places of interest. . . . Some other Mansfielders who started out on a vacation this weekend were Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Thompson, their daughter, Judith Ann, and Mrs. Esther Spayde. They've gone to Lakeland, Mich., accompanied by Marie Garster of Marion and will be joined there later this week by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Johnson . . . In fact, Lucy, Michigan seems to be real popular. Country Extension Agent George B. Gansyard and his family are up in that state now too, planning to return home this Wednesday.

This has been a reunion weekend at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Culp, as their daughter, Grace, was home from Chicago, Ill., and their daughters, Jessie and June, came down from Cleveland. . . . Then too, Katherine, who has been taking work on her Master's degree at the University of Wisconsin in Madison this summer, arrived home in time to visit with her sisters. . . . She stopped in Muskegon, Mich., to see some friends en route.

Probably one of the most thrilled youngsters in town this last week was David Lee Reiter—who was lucky enough to get the autographs of Glen Gray and all the members of his band recently when they were playing at Cedar Point. . . . He's the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Reiter, and Mr. Reiter has known the popular orchestra leader for many years, as they are from the same home town, Roanoke, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Garver have just returned from Elmira, N. Y., where they were visiting with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Pierce, and their son Jackie . . . They were accompanied on the trip by their son James, David Oswalt and Mr. and Mrs. D. Y. Hudson. Before coming back they also vacationed in Watkins Glen, N. Y.

EILEEN LOGAN and Eleanor Clingan really have had a busy and pleasant vacation . . . I think I told you that they took a cruise on the Great lakes—sailing from Cleveland to Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Mackinaw (and from here they went over to Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island for an evening), Chicago and a number of other ports. Then no sooner did they get back home about the middle of last week than they went up to one of the beach resorts on Lake Erie, where they took a cottage until today. . . . Goodness, I'll bet they'll hate to get back into the routine of their office jobs tomorrow, don't you, Lucy?

That seems to be just about that so far as holiday news is concerned, so now it's your turn to write me a letter soon.

Faithfully,

Marianne

Mansfielders Prepare for College Careers

When the school bells ring out this month, these young Mansfielders will bid the city goodbye to embark on their careers as freshmen in colleges near and far. And as the time approaches they're all busy studying college bulletins, checking up on train schedules, packing trunks and suitcases and even deciding on what favorite popular song records to take along for the winter. Shown above in the top row from left to right are: Miss Betty Austin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Austin, 276 Rowland avenue, who is going to the Juliard School of Music in New York City; Miss Marjorie Boals, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. David Boals, 32 Highland avenue, who will enroll at Ohio State university, and Miss Miriam Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Smith, 96 Glenwood boulevard, who will pursue her studies at Sullens college in Bristol, Va. From left to right in the bottom row are: Miss Polly Morrissey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Morrissey, 591 Highland avenue, who also is planning to go to Sullens; Miss Virginia Casperson, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Casperson, 500 Crescent road, a prospective student of Miami university; and Miss Betty Bell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene H. Bell, 150 Western avenue, who has decided to attend the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor.

Audubons to Open Autumn Season at Mrs. Scouten's

Some brown and green felt cat-o-nine tails are blooming on the covers of the new programs for the Audubon club which have just come off the presses. Members of the program committee, Mrs. H. J. Paulsen, Mrs. Fred Dippman, Mrs. M. V. Scouten and Mrs. B. R. Ahrendt, have planned the year's study, the first phase of which will be devoted to nature in the autumn outdoors. Mrs. Scouten will have the opening meeting tomorrow, while Mrs. Robert Barker will entertain on Oct. 1, and Mrs. Van Cook will be the hostess on Nov. 5.

A Christmas party has been scheduled for Dec. 3 at the home of Mrs. H. M. Spandau, and she will have a guest meeting in her recreation room on Jan. 7. Birds of the Bible will be the topic for discussion on Feb. 4, when Mrs. Carl Torrence is the hostess, and on March 4, some outdoor plants will head the program at Mrs. Ralph Race's home.

Birds, insects and flowers will all have a part in the programs for the next two months, when Mrs. Irving Cutting entertains at the Women's Club on April 1, and Mrs. Carl Spangler serves as hostess for the meeting of May 6. Plans have been formulated for a garden party to be held June 3, with Miss Josephine Doolittle in charge, and picnics will be events of June 24 and Aug. 5.

Mrs. Spandau is serving the club as president this year, assisted by Mrs. Paulsen as the vice president. The duties of secretary-treasurer have fallen to Mrs. R. M. Campbell, while Mrs. Ahrendt is the conservation chairman.

For dogs that are their master's pride, there is a new dog collar in white leather, patterned after a man's stiff collar. A perky little green four in hand leather tie streams down the dog's chest.

Wed Sunday In Quiet Ceremony

In an informal ceremony at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the First Presbyterian church, Miss Genee Shryock, 51 Arthur avenue, became the bride of Ken Woodman, 275 East First street. Rev. David N. Roller, pastor of the church, performed the single ring ceremony.

The bride, daughter of R. H. Shryock, was attended by her sister, Miss Marybell Shryock. John M. Schneider, 500 Wood street, was best man for the bridegroom. Others in the bridal party were Mrs. Schneider and Sam Murphy, Marion.

Following the ceremony a wedding supper was served at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Mrs. Woodman has been employed at the Stewart Paint company. Mr. Woodman, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Woodman, Napoleon, O., is Sunday editor of The News-Journal. The couple will reside at 298 West Third street.

LIP WHIMSY

A patriotic note is struck with a new lipstick introduced by a Fifth avenue store. Called a liberty lipstick, the rich, ripe red lip rouge is packed in a solid red case resembling a firecracker.

Mid-Afternoon Choice of Pair For Marriage

Esther Jane Maxwell and Glenn Heldenbrand Take Vows.

THE altar of the First Congregational church was decorated with two beauty vases of white gladioli and asters, palms and ferns and lighted by two seven-branched candelabra yesterday afternoon for the wedding of Miss Esther Jane Maxwell and Glenn Lewis Heldenbrand at 3 o'clock.

Nuptial music was furnished by Miss Alfaretta Bowden, organist, and Mrs. Bruce Rogers, vocalist. Miss Bowden's selections included: "Album Leaf" by Granfield, "Sweetest Story Ever Told" by Stultz, Victor Herbert's "Thine Alone," "At Dawning" by Cadman and the traditional wedding marches by Wagner and Mendelssohn. Mrs. Rogers sang "All For You" by Bertrand Brown and "Oh Promise Me" by deKoven. During the service, which was read by Rev. B. F. Haglebarger, pastor of the First Christian church, Miss Bowden played "I Promise You" by Oakland.

The bride, who is the daughter of George H. Maxwell, 116 Dawson avenue, was given in marriage by her father. Her white slipper satin gown was fashioned with a full skirt and medium-length train and wrist-length sleeves ending in points over her hands. A halo of orange blossoms held the bride's double finger-tip veil in place, and her only jewelry was a gold necklace, belonging to the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. O. F. Earick. She carried a round, front style bouquet of white larkspur, gardenias and white roses, tied with a shower of white satin ribbons.

Attends Bride.

Miss Betty Green of Lexington was the bride's only attendant, and she wore a rose taffeta gown trimmed in velvet. The dress was styled with a fitted shirred bodice, full skirt and short bolero jacket of velvet in a tea rose shade. Her hat matched her dress, and she carried a bouquet of pink and lavendar larkspur, delphinium, yellow pompon chrysanthemums and pink roses with pink satin shower ribbons.

Mr. Heldenbrand, who is the son of Mr and Mrs. O. F. Earick, 132 Hedges street, chose his bride's brother, Edward Maxwell, to be his best man. Adam Takos, Dwight Prosser, Ervin Remy and Clarence Herrick were the ushers. The bridegroom's mother was attired in a black and white silk costume with black accessories and a corsage of gardenias for the occasion.

After the ceremony, a recep-

Will Indicates Jealousy, Fear

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Five thousand dollars cash immediately and $65,000 in a trust fund await a California woman, under the terms of a will recently filed, but the lady must not be married and must not marry henceforth if she accept the trust fund.

The will states that in the event of the marriage of the lady "to any other person than myself, either prior or subsequent to my death," the bequest shall go to someone else.

This type of will is not new, but the taboo against marriage is not invoked usually unless in the case of a husband or wife. Some excuse may be found for a man who knows he is married to a scatterbrain and that she will probably accept the first proposal of marriage, offered in her widowhood, and that his children will have a hard time to get an education or the start in life that he worked early and late to give them.

The same line of argument may be true in the case of a woman with a philandering husband, a skirt-chaser who just can't help himself, and who will bring in, as a stepmother to lord it over her children, the first possessive female he meets. She argues: "Why should I leave every cent my father left me for some other women to enjoy, while my own sons and daughters go without?

But for the dead hand to reach up from the grave and prevent the marriage of someone to whom one is not bound by matrimonial ties offers a new aspect as a study in jealousy.

The best definition of a jealousy offered by specialists who make a study of "Why We Behave Like Human Beings" is that it's a form of fear. Victims of the green-eyed monster fear he or she will not measure up to the hated rival.

But what has a dead man to fear? In death he might be generous. All of us hope that in death we may not be concerned with those embittering emotions which confront us in our daily life. Even the agnostic hopes for forgetfulness in which the cares of a distraught world shall not intrude in the long sleep.

Why this vigilant guarding after death, this watchfulness, this demanding exclusive worship and love? Why not trust the fate and be generous?

As a companion-piece, it's pleasant to think of another type of will which old Washington, D. C. cherishes. It was made by a Russian Minister Plenipotentiary (we didn't rate ambassadors then). He married a girl much younger than himself. In his will he made substantial provision for her second husband 'if my beloved wife should marry,' and marry the lady did. But old Washington still speaks affectionately of the Russian aristocrat who knew how to be generous after death.

LADY, YOUR GLOVES

Newest of those tricky gadgets to keep one's possessions together is a little glove guard introduced by a Fifth avenue store. The glove leash, resembling a long key chain, is gold plated. One end is attached to the handle of one's handbag, and the other end ties around the glove with a jewel-like trimming.

TRAVELING TALCUM

If your vacation trip is via the air routes, you will be interested in cosmetics packed in containers that weigh practically nothing. Newest is a dusting powder packed in a plastic case so light that it takes up very little of the 40 pounds allowed for luggage. The odors are white lilac, carnation or tapestry.

SOPHISTICATED LADY

One of the smartest and most sophisticated beach colors is a rich, lush brown that seems to turn tanned skins to rosy bronze or honey. The enchanting new color has been introduced in dress-maker playsuits edged in ruched white piqque and sleek jersey suits with bare mid-riffs.

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"I'll emphasize that," I told my father, taking his hint and my own departure simultaneously.

But when I got back to the telephone and fitted the receiver to my ear and the mouthpiece to my lips, my interrogative "Mr. Veritzen?" elicited only a deep silence, and I realized that the annoyance of a disconnected number was in store for me.

Mindful of the telephone rule to "hang up your receiver and make you call again," I obeyed it.

There was a familiar buzzing sound and then the voice of the operator:

"The line is busy. Will you please hang up for a little while. I will call you back as soon as I can get the number."

Whether Philip Veritzen and I were "physically attuned," or whether some malevolent little imp was presiding over our attempted colloquy, I shall never know. But for three trials, every time I took down the receiver and asked for his hotel, I received the busy signal, and was sure that on the other end of the wire he was attempting to get me and fuming at the busy signal the hotel operator was receiving.

Finally, when my nerve ends were as frayed as I was sure Philip Veritzen's were, I made a desperate appeal to the operator.

"I am expecting a most important call from this number," I told her. "When I left the telephone, Mr. Veritzen was on the other end of the wire and expected to stay there until I came back with a message to him from my father. In some manner, the telephone became disconnected, and upon four separate calls since, I have received the busy signal. I am sure he is trying to call me. Couldn't you cut in and find out?"

"I will try to get the number for you," she said, carefully noncommittal on the "cutting-in" process, and in another second, I heard the great impresario's voice in violent protest—as he supposed—to the hotel telephone operator, but instead reaching my ears alone. I surmised that the sorely harassed operators had switched him to me without announcement, leaving me to deal with him.

I girded my courage, knowing that I might need it, and spoke swiftly, without any comment on the delay.

"I have my father's answer, Mr. Veritzen," I said abruptly, and he instantly switched his attention—and his grievances to me.

"I have been trying to get you for half an hour," he said heatedly, and I smiled to myself at the exaggeration.

"Were you talking on your line?" he asked next, his voice filled with deep resentful reproach that I should have dared to talk to anyone else while he was waiting.

"No, indeed," I assured him promptly. "I have been trying to get your number, but each time received the busy signal, because of course, as I see now, you were trying to get me at the same time. But now I am very much at your service."

"What does he say?"

"The Authority on Authorities"

RUFFING OUT LOSERS

As usually taught by able instructors, the first type of hand play at a suit contract is that in which trumps are dropped and then high cards are cashed in side suits, usually setting up the long cards of some one suit and on them discarding losers in other suits. The second type is just the reverse. It avoids the early leading of trumps because they are needed to ruff out losing cards of other suits. Frequently such contracts are rendered hopeless if the declarer makes the mistake of leading trumps even once, or if the opponents open with a trump lead.

1. ♠ A 10 5 ♥ 7 ♦ A 6 4 3 2 ♣ 7 4 3 2
2. ♠ A 10 8 4 ♥ Q J 2 ♦ 8 6 4 ♣ 9 7 3
3. ♠ A 10 8 4 3 ♥ 7 5 ♦ 8 6 4 3 ♣ J 6
4. ♠ 5 4 2 ♥ 7 ♦ K Q 7 6 5 4 2 ♣ Q J

South's Hand
♠ K Q J 9 6
♥ A 6 4 3
♣ A 8 5

If the numbered hands above are dummies and South is playing 4-Spades in each case against a lead of the heart K, ruffing principles are important. With No. 1 as dummy, South can count three losers in hearts, two in clubs. But he can get rid of the heart losers by ruffing. He wins the first trick with the heart A, leads the 3 to be ruffed by the spade, 5, re-enters his hand with the club A, ruffs the heart 4 with the spade 10, wins the diamond A and returns to his hand with a diamond ruff, then ruffs out the last heart with the spade. A. He comes to his own hand with another ruff of a diamond, cashes his three high trumps, then gives up two club tricks, making an overtrick.

With No. 2 as dummy, it must be clear West has made an unorthodox lead of a singleton K, usually considered the height of bad bridge. South, after winning with the heart A, must drop the hostile trumps at once, take the Q and J of hearts, re-enter his hand with the club A and, unless he has had to use up all the dummy's trumps, ruff the fourth heart there, making contract.

With No. 3 as dummy, trumps mustn't be led, even once. If they are and then, when the ruffing is attempted, the opponents each time they can return a trump, there will not be enough in the dummy. South makes his contract if he leads hearts and clubs at every opportunity, to ruff out the losers.

With No. 4, if East has the club K contract can be made, ruffing one club and one heart and discarding one heart on a diamond, leaving South only three losers.

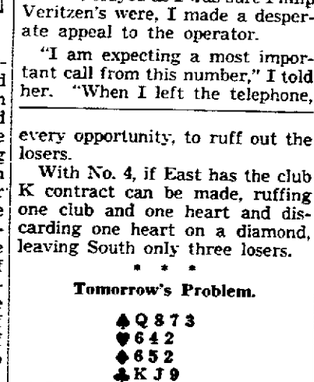
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

After South's 2-Hearts, North's 2-No Trumps, South's 3-Hearts and North's 4-Hearts on this deal, what should South bid and why?

Sprinkle fish fillets with French dressing half an hour before they are to be cooked. The dressing seasons better than does a top sprinkle of salt and pepper.

Means of Allaying Storm Fears

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

Among children, particularly in rural places, there are needless dreadful fears in connection with electric storms. It's the shock of thunder that frightens the younger child, or the anxiety in his presence of his parent or older children.

If you yourself have fears during an electric storm, work first on yourself. Avoid standing in a draft in the house, or leaning against the walls or chimney. It will increase your safety and feeling of security to wear rubbers or sit on these rubbers in a chair with each leg of the chair in a drinking glass to insulate you. When out-of-doors, stay away from a tree or wire fence during an electric storm. The safest place is an automobile, except during a severe wind storm.

You can help yourself or another person by watching a receding storm, especially at twilight or night, enjoying the beautiful play of lightning, and listening to the distant rumbling of thunder.

In case your child, say of three or four, is awakened by a thunderclap at night, go to him. Induce him to look out the window, being ready to see the trees, fence, or automobiles during each flash, a very fascinating experience for this child. The greater his interest in such matters the more his fears will subside. By day, it is good to read to the young child from his favorite book during an electric storm, or talk to him of things that capture his attention. Despite your own strong fears, you can, by exercising enough effort, avoid betraying them in the child's presence.

This same principle is employed by British mothers during air raids over England. When the warning sirens sound, the young children are taught to scamper to cover under ground, clutching Mickey Mouse gas masks and singing, 'Here we go down the steps again," to the tune of a familiar nursery song. Also the children are trained to clap their hands in "The Big Bang Game," so as to drown out the sound of the bursting bombs. For several million of these little children the sound of a bomber above them is a signal for several minutes or hours of entertainment. I hope such plans for little children are in practice in all parts of the warring world, that moreover, the young children are read to during long periods of such tenseness and during blackouts.

A grandmother once wrote me from Montana that she employed the same principle during an earthquake to calm two children, three and four, by shouting to them, "Watch the jumping, sliding sugar bowl!"

You may have a list of books for reading to the baby and young child; also a list of my pamphlets, one of which is on fears, by writing me at 235 East 45th Street, N. Y. City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

Solving Parent Problems.

Q. My baby, two years old, hurts the dog by hitting him and pulling his tail and ears.

A. For each and every offense immediately give the baby physical pain, preferably a sound smacking on the bare bottom. Praise her heartily when she treats the dog kindly. Otherwise get rid of the dog. Nothing can do a little child much more harm than to have a pet he continues to mistreat.

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, Sept. 3.

According to the lunar as well as mutual aspects of major planets, this is likely to be a day of excitement, agitation, commotion and surprises. Some occurrence, seemingly springing from nowhere, may descend with all the force of a tornado, to have a radical and far-reaching effect on the future and its fortunes. Strange persons and unique situations may give the element of drama and novelty to the life. All departments of living are involved, with unexpected change, new surroundings and fresh objectives. Others contribute, probably in curious way, to make it a stirring and adventurous era.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of great surprises and out-of-the-ordinary experiences, with romance and adventure entering the life and having much influence on the future fortunes. This may all be somewhat sensational and thrilling, with a devastating and up-rooting force. Radical change, including new environs and contacts, with strangers figuring conspicuously. Probably a fresh start, although it is advisable to study these sudden opportunities well and not be carried away by excitement, selfish advice or impetuosity. Also be careful with funds, credits and tangible assets of every kind.

A child born on this day may be exceedingly versatile and creative, probably in art, music or drama. It will be romantic, adventurous and have many social graces.

Serve Chicken Fricassee

By BETSY NEWMAN

Fricassee of chicken is always palatable, and the housewife can use a cheaper bird if she decides to give it the long cooking used in fricasseeing.

Today's Menu.

Fricassee of Chicken
Mashed Potatoes or Boiled Rice
Sweet Corn Popovers
Lettuce Salad
Huckleberry Roll Foamy Sauce
Coffee

Fricassee of Chicken.

Cut fowl up or have the butcher cut it up for you. Cover with cold water to which you have added 1 onion, 1 stalk of celery, 6 peppercorns. Cook slowly until chicken is very tender. Take meat from liquor, strain liquor and thicken with 2 tablespoons (or more) flour, season with salt and pepper and serve with chicken.

Popovers.

2 eggs
1 cup flour
1 cup milk
½ teaspoon salt

Beat eggs, add salt, then milk and sifted flour alternately until smooth batter is formed. Pour into hissing hot muffin pans and bake for about 30 minutes in hot (400 degree) oven.

Huckleberry Roll.

2 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder.
4 tablespoons shortening
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon salt
Milk to make dough

Sift flour with dry ingredients, add butter and work thoroughly through mixture. Add enough milk to make a soft dough, roll out ½ inch thin, spread with washed and drained huckleberries, sprinkle with sugar and a little nutmeg, roll like jelly roll and bake in moderate oven.

GALION PUBLIC SCHOOLS BEGIN STUDIES SEPT. 9

Increased Enrollment Seen Likely as Classes Start Term.

GALION—With the opening of the Galion public schools a little over a week away, final arrangements prior to the opening and the assignment of teachers and pupils are being announced today by Supt. O. E. Hill.

The September meeting of the Galion City Board of Education will be held on Sept. 10 instead of Sept. 3, Hill said today. An increased enrollment is expected to greet the teachers on the opening Monday, Sept. 9.

The official calendar calls for preparatory staff meetings during the week of Sept. 2 at which time the guiding machinery will be set up for the school year of 1940-41. An administrative conference is slated for 3 p. m. on Sept. 4, principals and special department heads to be included in this session. On Sept. 6 at 9 a. m. the entire staff will be brought together for a directional meeting with Supt. Hill in Room 202 of the Senior high school. Principal E. R. Pickering will meet the Senior high teachers at 10 a. m. and Principal R. W. Patterson will meet the Junior high faculty at 1 p. m. Principals Stover, Myers and Garverick will meet their teachers in their respective buildings at 2:30 p. m.

There will be a full day of school on Monday, Sept. 9, beginning at 8:30 a. m., convening with the usual schedule. All offices will be open and fully staffed at 8 a. m., while regular and special teachers will be on duty in their respective rooms at 8:15 at which time children are admitted to the buildings.

All teaching appointments have been made and approved, with the exception of the approval of an elementary teacher at the North school. Another new janitor, Ralph Pollock, was added to the list this week.

Teacher assignments are: Special, Lucy Ailer, health nurse and visiting teacher; Clarence Mackey, physical education director; J. Wendell Byrnes, music director; Jeanette Slocum, assistant music director; Charles Aplas, vocational coordinator; Richard Horn, audio-visual education director; Minnie Schaeffer, elementary art supervisor; Peggy Ann Eller, girls' physical education director.

SHELBY BOY SCOUTS COMPLETE RENOVATION OF MEETING ROOM

SHELBY — Troop 3 of the Boy Scouts last week completed renovation of the meeting room in First Methodist church at an approximate cost of $100.

Started by the scouts themselves last Christmas vacation, almost all of the work has been done by the boys. Remodeling of the room would have cost several hundred dollars if labor charges had been made, officials pointed out.

Walls of the room have been "papered" with slab wood and plastered between the half logs to give the appearance of a log cabin. Burlap has been stretched across the ceiling of the room to give the top a rustic appearance. Lighting fixtures will be changed later by the scouts to fit in with the decorations of the room.

A fireplace built of rocks has been constructed at the south end of the room. This room was recently dedicated for Boy Scout purposes by the official board of the church.

Leaders of this troop assisting the boys with the work are Scoutmaster Jacque Kaler and Assistant Scoutmasters Louis Wright, Jacque Armstrong, Avon Phillips and Wayne Vanasdale. Leader of the boys in charge of the work was Dick Claes, senior patrol leader. Building benches for the room were Arch Kirkpatrick, a member of the troop committee, and Marlin Yarman.

Troop 3, which is Shelby's largest scout troop, was organized five years ago with a patrol of eight members. It has grown until now its membership is 52 registered scouts. The troop has always met at First Methodist church. Sponsored by the church, the troop committee of the church includes Clayton Mayer, chairman; Charles Dye, Kirkpatrick, Ralph Carroll, Gerald Dennis, Onn Plahler and Merle Wright.

Lakeside Delegates' Reunion Scheduled Sept. 23 at Ontario

SHELBY — Delegates from Richland County Methodist churches to Lakeside Summer institute at Lakeside, O., this summer will gather at Ontario Community church Sunday, Sept. 23, for a reunion.

Sponsored by the county committee of camps and institutes promotion headed by John Gray of Shelby, the reunion had been planned for Shelby but the place was changed because the Shelby church had had a recent Lakeside rally meeting.

Arrangements for the get-together of the 40 delegates from Richland county to the institute were completed last week when the institute promotion committee met at the country home of Miss Jeanne Gatton near Bellville for a special meetitng.

The program outlined for the reunion included short talks by several of the delegates on three subjects about Lakeside. They will be "Cottage Life," "Classes," and "Recreational Activities." This short program will be followed by a "Indoor Track Meet" with each league in the county representing a college track team. Instead of regular track events, the teams will compete in stunts and contests. Miss Rhea Downs of Ontario, county fourth vice president, will have charge of the recreation.

Following the business session at the Gatton country home, refreshments were served by the hostess. Rev. Avery Butler of Butler, former Mansfield district cabinet head, was present for the meeting and assisted the leaguers plan the reunion.

Members of the Epworth leagues of Richland county who did not attend Lakeside will be guests at the reunion.

DRAW PLANS TO OPEN SCHOOLS

BUCYRUS—Bucyrus city school teachers will meet with Supt. D. C. Baer Monday afternoon to discuss policies for the school year, beginning Tuesday morning.

Rural teachers of the county will hold their first meeting Sept. 21 at Lykens school at the call of County Supt. Glen C. West. Georgia Elias, soldier, lecturer and adventurer will address the group. Thursday rural superintendents met with Supt. West for their first session of the year. Members elected Paul Morton, Leesville, superintendent, to a three-year term on the athletic committee succeeding R. A. Croneis, Whetstone superintendent.

MEET TUESDAY

SHELBY — Because of Labor Day holiday, city council will meet at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday instead of Monday night, Finance Director Chester Monn announced today. The change in night of the regular semi-monthly meeting was made by Mayor W. R. Morris.

GIVES REPORT ON OFFICERS

CRESTLINE—Clarence Speelman, chairman of the nominating committee, gave their report at the regular meeting of the Young Men's club. The annual election of officers will be held at a dinner meeting at the Y. M. C. A. next Thursday, at 6:30 p. m.

Plans were made to open the fall meetings at 7:30 instead of 8 o'clock as has been the custom through the summer months.

Advisor C. L. Klahn gave a talk on "Good Citizenship." Twelve members and one guest, Robert Susy, of Youngstown were in attendance for the meeting.

NEW TEACHERS

North Fairfield High School Faculty Listed.

NORTH FAIRFIELD — Several new instructors have been added to the faculty at the Fairfield school here. Mrs. Mary Price will teach in the primary grades, and has moved here with her family from Milan.

Miss Ethel Beck of Cleveland, will teach the third and fourth grade pupils. Miss Evelyn Jean Willis, former teacher, will again be on the faculty, and has been in charge of the 4-H work here during the summer months. She has been chosen to attend the 4-H congress to be held the third week in September. She will teach in the fifth and sixth grades.

Miss Evangeline Senseman will be the vocational home economics instructor. Mrs. Martha Niles, newly appointed, will teach languages. H. Paul Messmer, the new principal, will also teach social science. Miss Alice Harrer will be the commercial instructor.

James B. Wilder will be the athletic instructor and Lyle Myers, the newly appointed vocational director. Mrs. Martha Penn was hired as music instructor.

MAP PLANS FOR FAIRFIELD FAIR

NORTH FAIRFIELD—Members of the general committee of the community fair held a meeting recently and planned for the event to be held Oct. 3, 4 and 5. The group is composed of H. P. Messmer, chairman, Joseph Holden, advertising manager, Mrs. Maude McCormick, secretary and Lyle Myers, business manager.

Others to assist with arrangements will be Evangeline Senseman, James Wilder, Donald Phillips Mrs. Martha Niles and Mrs. Martha Penn and Thayer Perry; G. A. Hummon, J. C. Murlin, Evelyn Willis, Mrs. Bond, J. Holden, C. D. Harvey, Mrs. Everitt, Frank Irwin and Mrs. Whitright.

CHURCH GETS NEW MINISTER

Rev. J. Ousley Brown Fills Presbyterian Pulpit at Fredericktown.

FREDERICKTOWN — Beginning Sept. 8, the pulpit of the Presbyterian church, which has been vacant for some months, will be occupied by the Rev. G. Ousley Brown.

The son of the minister of the Champion Heights Presbyterian church at Warren, Rev. Brown is a graduate of the College of Wooster, where he received his bachelor of science degree in 1929, and the Presbyterian Theological seminary in Chicago, where he was awarded the bachelor of divinity degree in 1932.

He served as director of religious education in Lakeview Presbyterian church, Chicago while attending the seminary. From 1932 to 1937 he was director of boys work at Campbell, O., Christian Neighborhood house, and also served as part time pastor at the Hopewell Presbyterian church at New Bedford, Pa., where he later was made full time pastor.

Rev. Brown also served as director of crafts for the Columbus Y. M. C. A. boys summer camp at Bellefontaine while attending college.

HOW YOU CAN GET A
CASH LOAN
QUICKLY AND SIMPLY

You can borrow $100 if you can pay back $4.46 a month—See table for other loan plans—No credit questions asked of friends or relatives—Quick, friendly service.

YOU can get a personal loan—without red tape or delay—if you can repay in small monthly installments. All you do to apply for a loan at Household is to acquaint us with your problem. You need no bankable security—no endorsers or guarantors.

You may repay your loan on any of the schedules shown in the table below. Thus you may choose the payment plan which best fits your own needs and income.

Payments to fit your purse

Suppose that you need a $100 loan. You find this amount in the first column of the table. Then read across picking out the monthly payment which you wish to make. You will see, for instance, that monthly installments of $9.46 each will repay a $100 loan in full in twelve months. Or, if you wish smaller payments, as little as $4.46 a month for thirty months will also repay a $100 loan.

You will note that the sooner you repay the less your loan costs. Four monthly installments of $26.26 each, or a total of only $105.04, for instance, will repay a $100 loan in full.

Same rate to everyone

Installments shown in the table repay everything. These installments include charges at Household's rate of 2% per month on that part of a balance not exceeding $300, and 1½% per month on that part of a balance in excess of $300. This rate is substantially less than the maximum prescribed by the Small Loan Law. Household has only this one rate—the same for everyone, whether new customer or former borrower.

Simple to borrow

You get your Household Finance loan in a simple, private transaction. We require no stocks or bonds. (Loans are made on furniture, car or note.) You are spared the embarrassment of asking friends or fellow-workers to sign the loan papers with you. And no questions regarding your credit are asked of friends or relatives.

Considerate treatment

You may expect every consideration in case of sickness or unemployment while paying on a Household Finance loan. Last year we foreclosed on only one chattel mortgage for each 20,000 loans. This action was taken only as protection against fraud.

If a loan can help you, phone or visit us for further information. No obligation.

Merchants Triumph In Finals; Cleveland Tops White Sox

Take State Title

Mansfield Merchants Annex State Softball Crown With 3-2 Triumph.

THE Mansfield Merchants girls softball team holds a possession today that no other Mansfield team ever possessed.

Manager Forest Daugherty's players have in their possession the state girls' championship which they won by registering a thrilling 3 to 2 victory over the North Ridgeville Bittinger Funeral home girls team at Toledo yesterday.

With the score tied at 2-all in the regulation seven-inning game, the Merchants pushed over the deciding tally in the eighth to triumph.

Betty Garford was on the hill for the Mansfielders and limited the North Ridgeville outfit to five hits, while her teammates were garnering seven off the offerings of Pitts.

North Ridgeville opened the scoring with a run in the second, but the Merchants evened the score by duplicating the feat in the third. The losers tallied again in the fourth and Daugherty's club tied the score in the sixth.

Donna Schuster paced the Merchants' attack with a pair of singles, while Jocha pounded out a double. Garford only fanned two but had perfect control and didn't issue a walk.

The Merchants meet the Cleveland Koch Furnitures in a game at New London today.

Snead, Nelson Meet in Finals

Golfers Match Strokes In PGA Tournament.

HERSHEY — (AP) — Sam Snead and Byron Nelson meet today in the 36 hole final match for the championship of the Professional Golfers association, a title neither has yet held though both have been runners-up.

Snead of Shawnee on Delaware, Pa., reached the last round of this week-long match play tournament yesterday by defeating Harold (Jug) McSpaden, Winchester, Mass., 5 up and 4 to play.

Nelson won from Ralph Guldahl, one up, in a bitter battle that was not conclusive until the last putt was holed on the 18th green.

These two semi-final rounds were the first to be played in sunshine and on a comparatively dry course since the tournament started last Monday. It was necessary to hold up both matches at the end of 18 holes Saturday when the rain became a deluge.

Snead went in to his second 18 holes three up on McSpaden, made it four up at the turn and ended things five holes later.

Nelson, of Toledo, Ohio, had a one hole advantage over Guldahl when their last round started, stretched this to three holes at one point, then slid back to only one up as they came to the final tee where a half put Guldahl ahead of the play. Both had last round 71's.

Slammin' Sam has played his last 68 holes in 12 under par, while Byron was 11 under par in his matches.

The Snead-McSpaden match was a repeat performance of their playoff for the Canadian open championship recently, which Snead won.

Nelson has been out of active tournament play in the past several months. His last triumph was early in the year, the Texas open at San Antonio.

DIZZY DEAN FAILS IN FINAL MINOR LOOP TILT

CHICAGO — (AP) — Dizzy Dean, who will rejoin the Chicago Cubs Saturday for their final tour of the east, ended his comeback campaign in the Texas league on anything but a happy note.

Making his farewell appearance with Tulsa yesterday, Dizzy was clouted by Oklahoma City for 10 hits and five runs in three and one-third innings.

PLAY POLO FINALS

CLEVELAND—(AP)—The Gates Mills, O., polo team squared off today against the Seven Eleven ranch team of Chicago in finals of the National 12 Goal tournament here. The Ohioans defeated the Nuisache club of Houston, Tex., 5-4 in semi-finals yesterday.

Moorhead Faces Drummond Today

Fishy, Fishy in The Brook

What's more natural for Dorothy Arnold, wife of Joe Di Maggio, the baseball star, than to fish on a vacation at Duluth, Minn., for her husband comes from Fisherman's Wharf, San Francisco, and operates a restaurant featuring sea food. Dorothy is a Duluth girl and she is trolling for giant Lake Superior trout here.

Cincinnati Takes Double Win; Faces St. Louis Team Today

CINCINNATI — (AP) — Shoving aside what might happen, with the St Louis Cardinals coming here today and the possibility remaining that the Cincinnati baseball club could take a nose dive, Rhinelanders have it figured out that the Reds can take 15 of their remaining 30 games and still win the National league pennant.

Regarding the adverse possibilities as just a feather in the breeze, they say such a win-loss record would give the Reds a percentage of .610, not up to their .630 last year, but much better than the mark with which several clubs have taken the championship.

To tie the league leaders at the pace the second place Brooklyn Dodgers would have to win 23 of their remaining 31 games and that is a .774 clip, which the Dodgers have not been playing, it was pointed out.

But the Reds, anxious to put the finishing touches on the championship, hoped their double header with the Cardinals today would not be a duplication of their brush April 18 when St. Louis grabbed both ends of a twin bill from Cincinnati. The Reds have experienced only three such double defeats this season.

As insurance against such a possibility Paul Derringer, who ranks second among Cincinnati hurlers, was called to face the Cards, along with Johnny Hutchings. Mort Cooper and Lon Warneke were to oppose them.

By taking both games of a double header with the Cubs yesterday 6-5 and 2-1, the Reds remained seven and one-half games ahead of the Dodgers, who trimmed the Giants twice. Although outhit, the Reds edged out their first victory over the Bruins in a batters' battle. The final was a pitching duel between Whitey Moore for the Reds and the Cubs' Larry French.

Cincinnati scored two runs in the third inning of the opener and drove Bill Lee from the mound in the fifth by counting four more as the entire side batted around. The Cubs jumped on hurler Jim Turner of the Reds for a run in the fifth and staged a determined four-man rally in the eighth on singles by Clay Bryant, Billy Herman, Stanley Hack and Dominic Dallessandro along with Zeke Bonura's double. Chicago collected 12 hits, compared to eight by Cincinnati batters.

Moore held the Cubs to four hits in seven and two-thirds innings in the nightcap, relinquishing the mound to Joe Beggs after issuing three passes in the eighth. Chicago was held to five hits, their only run being Stanley Hack's homer in the seventh. For the Reds Frank McCormick singled home a run in the first inning and Mike McCormick hit safely in the sixth to count another.

Dairys Defeat Ferguson Club

Win State Softball Title With 1-0 Victory.

MASSILLON — (AP) — The Paige Dairy team of Toledo will be Ohio's representative in the national softball tournament next week at Detroit as reward for winning the state championship here last week.

The Toledoans defeated the Columbus Ferguson Auditors 1 to 0 in the final match of the Ohio tournament. A home run by Catcher Ted Hill provided the only score.

There were only five hits in the entire pitchers' battle. Vic Knurek of Toledo gave up three and Ralph Solt of Columbus two. The Auditors were Ohio champions last year.

The Dairymen have a record of 45 victories and only one defeat for the season. That one went to the Toledo Krantz Brewers. The champs have run up large scores generally and did so during this tournament.

In the semi-finals they defeated the Sabina All Stars 15 to 1. Columbus defeated the Akron Curtis All Stars 2 to 0. The finals and semi-finals were postponed from last week.

NATIONAL NET TOURNEY SCHEDULED TO START

NEW YORK — (AP) — If the weather is fair and if the country's leading tennis players haven't forgotten what is expected of them when they finally get out on the courts, the National Men's and Women's Singles championships will start today at suburban Forest Hills.

The prospects aren't very good in either respect. It's been raining for a week and the courts have been unplayable ever since the tournament was scheduled to start last Thursday. The forecast calls for more rain today.

RACES HOLD SPOTLIGHT

VERMILION—(AP)—Team races held the spotlight today following the feat of Norman Cole, Rochester, N. Y., in plotting his Norgin to a Great Lakes championship in the 14-foot International sailing class test here yesterday. Gordon Douglas of Vermilion in the Foxy was runner-up.

Meet for Westbrook Title; Mayer, Zediker Advance In Golf Tourneys.

By CHARLES MARTIN
News-Journal Sports Editor.

INTEREST in Mansfield golf circles today will focus on Westbrook Country club where Bobby Moorhead, youthful amateur, goes after his third straight club championship.

Moorhead, who has had an easy time reaching the finals, will tee off against Burleigh Drummond at 9:30 a. m. today. The two shotmakers will match strokes in the second 18 holes starting at 1:30 p. m.

Already credited with pulling the big surprise in the Westbrook event by eliminating Bill Black, jr., 4 and 3 in a semi-final match yesterday, Drummond may cause Moorhead some trouble.

Although he enters the finals as a favorite, Moorhead believes Drummond's soaring wood shots might change the picture. Incidentally, if Bobby turns the trick today he will be the first Westbrook member to hold the title three successive years.

Bobby copped his first crown in 1938 when he edged Paul Auxter on the 36th hole and last year successfully defending the title by beating Ed Eisele.

Moorhead ranks as one of the longest distance hitters in this district and his deadly approach shots are feared by every opponent.

That he is accurate with his irons was proven in a semi-final tussle with Dr. Art Sprecker Moorhead, using a No. 8 iron scored a hole-in-one on the 152-yard No. 8 hole.

It appears as if the club championships at Possum Run and Coolridge Country club will be held another year by the defending champions.

At Possum, Joe Mayer, who has fired sub-par golf in all his tournament matches is a top favorite to retain honors, while Gene Zediker seems to be near his peak in tussles so far at Coolridge.

Mayer pounded out a pair of four-under-par 68's in taking his first two opponents at Possum and yesterday came back with a 70 to eliminate Carl Wiseman, 4 and 3.

Meanwhile, Grant Hannawalt, who was figured in the pre-tourney dope, upset the dope bucket by knocking off Carl Kushin, a former Possum Run champion, 2 and 1 in a semi-final affair yesterday.

Hanawalt and Mayer will tangle in the finals Sunday. "Irish" McGee, Possum Run manager, stated yesterday. The golfers will play 18 holes in the morning and the other 18 in the afternoon.

Zediker, who bested Frank Jocha, 2 and 1, in a semi-final tussle, meets Vin Malaska for the title today. Play will start at 9 a. m. Malaska moved into the finals with a 3 and 1 triumph over Steve Stirtzinger.

In the finals of the first flight division at Coolridge, Nick Loris faces George Zimmerman today. The champions of the other flights are: Clara Bell, third; Frank Jerger, fourth, and Lee Newbright, fifth.

THREE EVENTS ON TOP

Activities at the three Mansfield golf courses today will consist of two "blind bogey" tournament and a mixed two-ball foursome affair. Possum Run and Coolridge are staging the "blind bogey" sessions while the foursome event will be held at Westbrook Country club.

Wenninger Cops Crown

Shelby Youth Beats Poland In Golf Finals.

SHELBY—Ed Wenninger owns the Shelby Country club golf tournament championship today.

Playing steady golf, the youthful shotmaker took the title and president's cup by upsetting Hub Poland, 4 and 3, in the finals as approximately 150 spectators looked on yesterday at the course.

It is the first time Wenninger has won the title. In three other tournaments he reached the semi-finals.

Pounding out a 38-37—75 total in the morning round, Wenninger piled up a 3 up advantage on the second nine. From there on in he never trailed as Poland's iron shots failed him.

Poland tried desperately to even the score on the first nine in the afternoon, shooting a 37 to Wenning's 39. He won only one hole, however, and Wenninger started the final nine sporting a 2 up lead.

Poland tied the first hole and then dropped two in a row. He won the next, but Wenninger annexed No. 14 and tied Poland on the next to take the title. The players finished the match with Wenninger coming in with a 37 and Poland with a 38.

SMOKEY JOE TRIUMPHS

KENTON — (AP) — Smokey Joe, defending champion in the National Leafy Oak coon dog field trials, topped a stellar field today in semi-finals of "dogdom's Kentucky Derby."

The champion, owned by Sam Tharr of Dayton, won line money.

Braves Stop Oilers; Meet Fremont Today

A POWERFUL 15-hit attack, which included a pair of home runs, enabled the Mansfield Braves to hand the second-place Findlay Oilers a 13 to 4 beating in an Ohio State league game at Findlay yesterday.

The Braves, with George Laurila and Bob Arnold scheduled to handle the hurling duties, tackle the Fremont Green Sox in a doubleheader at the Fairground tonight. The initial tilt is scheduled to start at 7 p. m. The games were originally scheduled for this afternoon.

Mansfield began its scoring in the first and climaxed it by denting the plate with two markers in the seventh. It was the Braves' 55th win of the season and put them back on the .500 per cent mark.

It was one of the most impressive triumphs registered over the Oilers this season. Mansfield scored at least one marker in all but three innings.

Rex Benton worked on the hill for the Mansfield outfit and held Findlay to four runs although he gave up 10 hits.

Herb Woodten, Gene Woodling and Howard Beals led the big attack. Woodten smacked out a home run and two singles, while Woodling collected a homer and single and Beals three bingles. Findlay committed seven errors.

Peterson Wins City Tennis Championship

Turns Back Moore in Thrill-Packed Match at Woodlawn In Singles Finals.

Winning tennis championships in Mansfield circles this year appears to be an easy task for Warner Peterson.

Peterson had won several amateur titles while in college, but this is the first time he has appeared in Mansfield tournaments and he made an impressive debut.

First he copped the Woodlawn singles titles, then he and Thornton Moore won the city-wide tournament doubles crown and yesterday he topped his performances by taking the city-wide tourney singles championship by defeating Moore before some 100 spectators in the finals at Woodlawn court.

Peterson fought an uphill battle and was forced to the limit before eliminating Moore. Thornton turned on the power in the early set to take the lead, but Peterson was not to be denied.

He came back to whip Moore in three straight sets. Moore won the first two, 6-2 and 6-3, and then Peterson broke loose. He took the next set, 6-1, duplicated the feat in the next affair and wound the event up with a 6-2 win.

* * *

Peterson, along with Bill Heichel, juniors' single champion, and Lois Shuey, women's single titleholder, were awarded trophies immediately after the matches. The tournament this year was sponsored by the Yuncker Brothers Sports store. Moore and Peterson was presented with the doubles trophy.

American League Title Race Causing a Lot of Confusion

By JUDSON BAILEY
(AP Sports Writer)

BIG league baseball enters the home stretch today with the two races in an almost unprecedented situation — the National League apparently decided and the American League in confusion.

There were a lot of red hot teams as the boys bounced out for their Labor day labors, but the only one that counted was the world champion New York Yankees who have their junior circuit rivals frantic.

They pumped up their latest winning streak to seven straight yesterday by taking a pair of games from the Washington Senators, 3-2 and 3-0. They now have won 13 of their last 14 games and 20 of their last 23.

The result of this seemingly irresistible surge has been to reduce the margin between them and the league-leading Cleveland Indians to 4½ games and to only one between them and the desperate Detroit Tigers, in second place.

Whether the champions got going too late will be decided on their last western swing this month. After today they have only five more games at home while both Cleveland and Detroit have the bulk of their remaining contests at home.

Red Ruffing hurled the Yanks to the first game triumph yesterday with Red Rolfe helping out with a two-run homer. Rookie Ernie Bonham pitched himself a four-hitter in the nightcap.

Cleveland conquered the Chicago White Sox, 7-4. It was the 15th time in 19 games. The Indians punched old Ted Lyons for a dozen hits, but the really vital factor in the Tribe's triumph was one-hit pitching by Joe Dobson for five of the middle innings.

The Tigers, however, stumbled over the St Louis Browns, who have created more havoc among the topnotchers than any other club in the league. John Niggeling allowed the Detroit sluggers only four hits and Harlond Clift contributed a two-run homer toward the 8-2 victory.

The Boston Red Sox were rained out at Philadelphia.

In the National League the champion Cincinnati Reds swept a double-header from the Chicago Cubs 6-5 and 2-1 apparently to insure retention of their pennant. The club probably will announce acceptace of world series reservations if it comes through the holiday fireworks unscathed, for it has won 8 of its last 10 games and is 7½ out in front of the second place Brooklyn Dodgers.

Both games yesterday were as tight as the scores indicated. In the opener the Cubs outhit the Reds 12-8, but couldn't quite catch the Rhinelanders who had tallied all they needed in the first five frames. The nightcap was a pitching duel with each side limited to five hits and Whitey Moore getting credit for the decision, although he walked three men in the eighth and was hustled off the mound.

The Dodgers sewed up second place by extending their winning string to four straight in a doubleheader against the New York Giants. Lefty Lee Grissom allowed only five hits in the first game for his first victory as a Dodgers, 4-1, and Whitlow Wyatt rationed seven safeties for a 7-3 verdict in the nightcap. Dixie Walker, who hit three doubles in three trips to the plate Saturday, batted five for five, including two two-baggers, in this nightcamp.

The Pittsburgh Pirates padded their current winning streak to four games by shutting out the St Louis Cardinals 10-0 in the first game of a doubleheader with Ken Heintzelman scattering four hits and getting four himself. The second game resulted in a 5-5 tie because of the Pittsburgh curfew and was played under protest by Manager Frank Frisch after Umpire George Magerkurth reversed a decision. Yes, Frisch was chased again.

Jim Tobin and Manny Salvo produced two fine six-hit pitching performances as the Boston Bees battered the Phillies 2-1 and 10-0. The only run off Tobin in the first game was a homer by Ben Warren Salvo's shutout was his fifth of the year.

Tribe Tackles St. Louis In Doubleheader

Chapman, Dobson Star As Indians Mark Up 7 to 4 Triumph Over Chicago.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Coming home for a Labor day double header with the St. Louis Browns, the Cleveland Indians stood at the top of the league today by the identical margin as when they went on tour two weeks ago.

By defeating the White Sox at Chicago yesterday 7 to 4 and sweeping their three-game series while Detroit was losing to St. Louis, the Tribe went three and a half games ahead of the Tigers.

But New York's double victory over Washington blew the hot breath of the Yankee pack on both the Indians' and Tigers' necks. The Yanks climbed within one game of Detroit and within four and a half of Cleveland.

The Indians have fought each of their recent contests as though their fate depended on it—and the final game at Chicago was a dogged up-hill battle.

They hit the veteran Ted Lyons hard and led off the scoring in the second inning. Ray Mack stroked a double to left that scored Jeff Heath from first base.

Al Milnar, who had pitched only one full inning in 15 days, was rusty and ineffective as he had expected. The Sox tied the score in the second on a double and single and knocked him out in the third.

In that frame Milnar walked Skeeter Webb and then yielded two doubles to Mike Kreevich and Joe Kuhel. Another single by Taft Wright ran the count to three runs for the inning

But that was the end of the Chicago scoring Joe Dobson relieved Milnar at that point and only one more man got past first base. Milnar was touched for five hits but Dobson gave up only one

In the fourth, Hal Trosky lined a double to center and Heath followed with a triple. Frankie Pytlak singled in the tying score The Tribe went ahead in the eighth as Lou Boudreau singled and took third on a wild pitch and Ken Keltner singled him home.

They clinched it with a three-run coup de grace in the ninth. Pytlak walked but was forced by Dobson. Ben Chapman doubled. Oscar Grimes went to third to run for Dobson.

Roy Weatherly sent a double to the right wall and Grimes jogged home but Chapman thought the ball had been caught, returned to retouch second and stopped at third. Boudreau singled both runners home.

Bob Feller was sent to the mound to pitch the last half-inning.

Mike Tresh flied out. Bob Kennedy walked. Pinch Hitter Ken Silvestri struck out on a three-two pitch and Pytlak's fast throw caught Kennedy at second to end the game.

Mel Harder and Johnny Allen were nominated to pitch the Labor day double header despite the fact that Allen pitched four innings Saturday. Their opponents were Elden Auker and Vernon Kennedy who have given the Indians more trouble than any other St. Louis hurlers.

The Indians have been paying little attention to the Detroit results lately. (They have nine more days of play with the Tigers.) But they tune in on the Yankees at every chance.

In the club house getting New York reports, some Indian comments were:

"We'll take care of those guys when they come to Cleveland. . . . We booted away two games with the Yanks on this last trip. . . . They haven't been tough on the road this season. . . . This isn't the time to start."

Catcher Rollie Hemsley was too ill to play the last Chicago game. He said "I feel kind of weak but I expect to be okay by Monday.

The final pitch of the last Chicago game was one of the hardest Frankie Pytlak ever caught, he said. The count was three and two on Ken Silvestri when Bob Feller let it go.

Pytlak said "The ball was in my glove before Silvestri got his bat around. It knocked me back on my haunches."

* * *

The Indians came home with a record of six games won and five lost on their last extended road trip of the season. Their only remaining games away from home are with Detroit.

VOTING POWER INCREASED BY CLOSE CONTEST

Individual In One State Has Much More Ballot Voice Than In Another.

PRINCETON, N. J. —(AP)— In presidential elections the individual voter in a closely contested state may exert hundreds of times more influence on the make-up of the electoral college than a voter in a state where one candidate predominates strongly.

This is according to the arithmetic of Dr. John Q. Stewart, member of the faculty of Princeton university.

His computations show this inequality in past presidential elections, and indicate how large they may be in the coming election.

For example, he says, in 1936 New Hampshire's electoral vote of 4 would have been swung from Roosevelt if only 1910 voters had been persuaded to change to Landon. Accordingly 4 electoral votes were effectively controlled at the rate of 478 votes per electoral vote.

But in Mississippi it would have required a shift to Landon of 76,438 Roosevelt votes to swing 9 electoral votes. This is at the rate of 8493 votes per electoral vote.

Therefore, it is fair to assert, Dr. Stewart says, that a Roosevelt voter in New Hampshire exerted about 18 times greater influence on the composition of the electoral college than a Roosevelt voter in Mississippi.

In the famous contest of 1884 a change to Blaine of 575 Cleveland votes in New York would have put the state's 36 electors in the Blaine column, and Blaine in the White House.

This case was at the rate of 16 votes per elector of the winning side.

From results of a recent sample nationwide poll Dr. Stewart estimates that this fall in Wyoming a Willkie voter stands to exert 38 times more electoral influence than the individual Roosevelt voter in Texas. In Wyoming, under this estimate, about 330 votes will control the electoral vote; in Texas, 12,500. Some other states as estimated by Dr. Stewart, on the basis of the straw poll, are North Dakota, 625; Rhode Island, 700; Delaware, 800; Connecticut, 830; Nevada, 1,300; Michigan, 1,800; Pennsylvania, 2,300; New York, 2,500; Ohio, 3,300; Illinois, 4,000; Massachusetts, 4,000; California, 4,600; New Jersey, 4,600; Indiana, 6,000; Iowa, 7,000; Maine, 9,000; and Louisiana, 11,000.

WPA SHORTAGE

MOBILE, Ala. —(U.P.)— Found—a city with a scarcity of WPA labor.

The city commission proposed to use WPA workers to gather driftwood off the Gulf shores to be sawed and distributed to indigent families for the coming winter.

The local WPA approved the plan, but was unable to furnish labor because all available relief workers are employed on the U. S. army's new $8,000,000 air depot here, now under construction.

LAZY PIGEON

SCRANTON, Pa.—(U.P.)—There's a lazy pigeon in Scranton. Edward Kobeski, elevator operator in a local bank building, had a pigeon walk, not fly, into his elevator a few days ago, so he took the bird up to the roof and released it.

Evidently enjoying the ride, the bird repeated the performance the next day.

RUSH SHELTER

Canal Zone Bomb Hideout Dug In Solid Rock.

ANCON, Canal Zone—(INS)—Work is being rushed night and day to complete within a year the Canal Zone's first bombproof shelter which is being constructed "somewhere near here."

The shelter, which is being bored into solid rock under a mountain, will be available for signal corps communications and as an emergency command post.

The project, a military secret, is inspected almost daily by Lieutenant General Daniel Van Voorhis, commanding general of the Panama Canal department.

LOOKING BACK ON FIRST YEAR OF BITTER WAR

all of Europe was brought under strong Nazi-Fascist influence except for such indecisive power as Soviet Russia and Britain have so far exercised along the Black sea, in Turkey and in Greece.

The axis powers ruled the air throughout the first 12 months of war—probably the decisive factor in their triumphs—until Britain's rejuvenated Royal Air Force began to dispute the power of enemy air fleets in recent weeks. Air strength and air losses are still a matter of conjecture, but both sides claim to have destroyed more than 1,000 enemy craft in the battle of Britain alone.

On the seas, Britain's navy still ruled despite admitted loss of 50 warships, including one battleship and two aircraft carriers, and the sinking of more than 70 auxiliary craft and several score small ships. Germany claims to have destroyed some 6,000,000 tons of merchant shipping owned by or useful to the enemy, but the British admit only one-third of that total. German and Italian overseas shipping has been virtually wiped out.

The war that destroyed all past concepts of military conflict began with the German invasion of Poland on September 1, dramatically announced by Hitler after Nazi air armadas had started bombardment of Polish objectives. Declaration of a state of war between Britain and Germany, however, did not come until September 3.

While Nazi armed forces raced through a three-week conquest of Poland, the pattern of warfare dictated by the German high command began unfolding throughout Europe.

On the eastern front, Hitler's friendship treaty with Soviet Russia held the line for the Nazis and led to the Russian occupation of eastern Poland on Sept. 17. In the south, the Balkans were frantically working with the blessing of Germany and the active aid of Italy to establish a neutrality front and on the north the Scandinavians were without military establishments of importance.

On the western front, the long-established French and British theory of static warfare behind the Maginot line fitted perfectly the plans of the German high command.

French troops pushed into the edge of Germany, halted and (with Poland fallen) fell back to the Maginot line when the Germans counter-attacked. The western front settled down into months of siege, patrol battles and exchanges of wise cracks.

A war of attrition, in which the Allied powers hoped to strangle Germany slowly, appeared to have begun, broken by occasional sea clashes and by intensive Nazi propaganda that included a series of speeches by Hitler calling for peace on his own terms.

On November 30, Soviet Russia claimed that Finland was being used for a plot against Moscow and began another war in the sub-arctic.

The Russian-Finnish conflict lasted until mid-March, a bloody series of battles in deadly cold that cost both sides heavily and ended with Soviet annexation of the Karelian peninsula and other frontier areas and naval bases.

The Russians later bolstered their new defense line by taking over Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania; and wrested Bessarabia and Bukovina from Rumania in the south.

The static war ended on Europe's main battle front on April 9, when the Nazis invaded Denmark and Norway on the grounds that Britain's blockade and mine-laying off the Norwegian coast was a form of aggression. The pattern of conflict from then on followed a series of Nazi feints in many directions and then hammer-like surprise blows along the traditional route through Holland and Belgium to flank the Maginot line.

The German armed forces, moving under a protecting cloud of airplanes, required a month to drive a counter-attacking Allied force from southern Norway and the Berlin high command invaded the low countries on May 10.

Britain and France had been preparing for such a blow since the war started and were moving into the low countries almost as soon as the Nazi offensive began.

But when the blow came—a stunning blitzkrieg thrust through the Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg—German surprise tactics, the superiority of Nazi air power and, finally, the tremendous drive of Nazi mechanized units across the Meuse and down the Somme river to the sea won the Battle of Flanders in three weeks of fighting.

In that time Gen. Maurice Gamelin had replaced the Allied generalissimo, Gen. Maurice Gamelin and Marshal Henri Philippe Petain had been recalled to duty in Paris.

It was too late. The defensive war planned by Gamelin had been lost and Geygand found it impossible to seize the offensive.

On May 28, King Leopold of the Belgians capitulated. His troops had been without food in many places for several days. Their ammunition was low. Their neighbor, Holland, had been conquered and roads clogged with refugees delayed arrival of Allied reinforcements even before the Germans cut through to the sea and encircled almost 1,500,000 Allied troops.

British troops [illegible] tempting to cut through the German trap were shifted to the Belgian front. Two days later began the tragic and heroic Allied evacuation from Dunkirk under constant German aerial attack.

Miraculously, it saved a great part of the defeated armies. But the battle for France was lost as the Germans crashed on to the Seine and across it, converged on Paris and flanked the "impregnable" Maginot line.

Italy entered the war on June 10 and on June 20, negotiations for an armistice began at Compiegne Forest, in the same railroad car that sheltered French Gen Ferdinand Foch when he coldly received the German plea for terms at the end of the first World war 22 years ago.

Hostilities in France ended at 12.35 a. m., of June 26.

Germany and Italy then turned their full military power to attack on the British empire from Scotland to East Africa. British troops withdrew in mid-August from Somaliland and braced for an Italian offensive into Egypt.

The battle of Britain was in full swing.

On Aug. 11, waves of German planes swept over England, bombing the great naval centers at Portsmouth and along the Thames estuary, the Royal Air Force put up a strong defense and struck back at German and Italian bases in night time bombing raids.

The Nazi attacks spread to London itself, and British planes struck back at objectives near and in Berlin. On Aug. 22 Britain claimed that 1,000 German planes had been downed in a two-months' period. Germany claimed to have destroyed about as many British craft.

The extent of damage was not fully disclosed by either side, but both London and Berlin claimed that military defenses and war production facilities were unimpaired.

extensive property damage and injuries to many persons.

Crowds which surged through the capital yesterday singing the national anthem and shouting "Not one inch for the Magyars" (Hungarians) were dispersed by troops using tear gas and firehoses.

In the affected northern section of Transylvania, peasants, armed with pitchforks, shotguns and long knives, and declaring they would resist Hungarian entry, were reported taking up frontier positions abandoned by Rumanian troops.

The commander of one Rumanian division announced his men would die rather than leave their posts.

At Cluj where rioting crowds wrecked a Hungarian-owned theater and swept through the streets in wild demonstrations, a "committee of resistance" was formed.

Thousands gathered in the city square, where students mounted boxes and delivered fiery speeches. Shouts of "we prefer war" and "down with the traitors" came from the crowd as speakers denounced the Vienna agreement ceding approximately half of Transylvania to Hungary.

Hisses greeted mention of Premier Mussolini's name, and only the intervention of soldiers prevented destruction of a statue of Romulus and Remus bearing a plaque inscribed with the Duce's name.

The Hungarian legation at Cluj demanded military protection and a large contingent of troops was dispatched to guard the building.

Sibiu, German minority center in Transylvania, was also the scene of violent disorders.

Changes in the Washington township district will close another of the county's one-room schools, the Union Hall school south of Mansfield. Its 15 pupils will go to Madison township schools.

All of the superintendents of the county's rural high schools will be back at the same schools they headed last year, while in Mansfield there will be no changes in the administration staff, including Supt. W. L. Miller and principals of the city's 14 buildings.

When pupils go back to Mansfield Senior high school Wednesday, the school's vocational department will go on a 24-hour schedule. High school pupils will have their classes during the day and students in the national defense classes will use the shop equipment at night.

The defense classes have been using the department during the day for several weeks. Financed by the federal government, the defense training provides free instruction for WPA workers and unemployed young men who plan to seek jobs in federal armament and munitions plants. Other courses afford preliminary training for young men interested in aviation.

While courses to tie up with the national defense program are not compulsory in high school, pupils are expected to turn to them this year in preparation for government jobs.

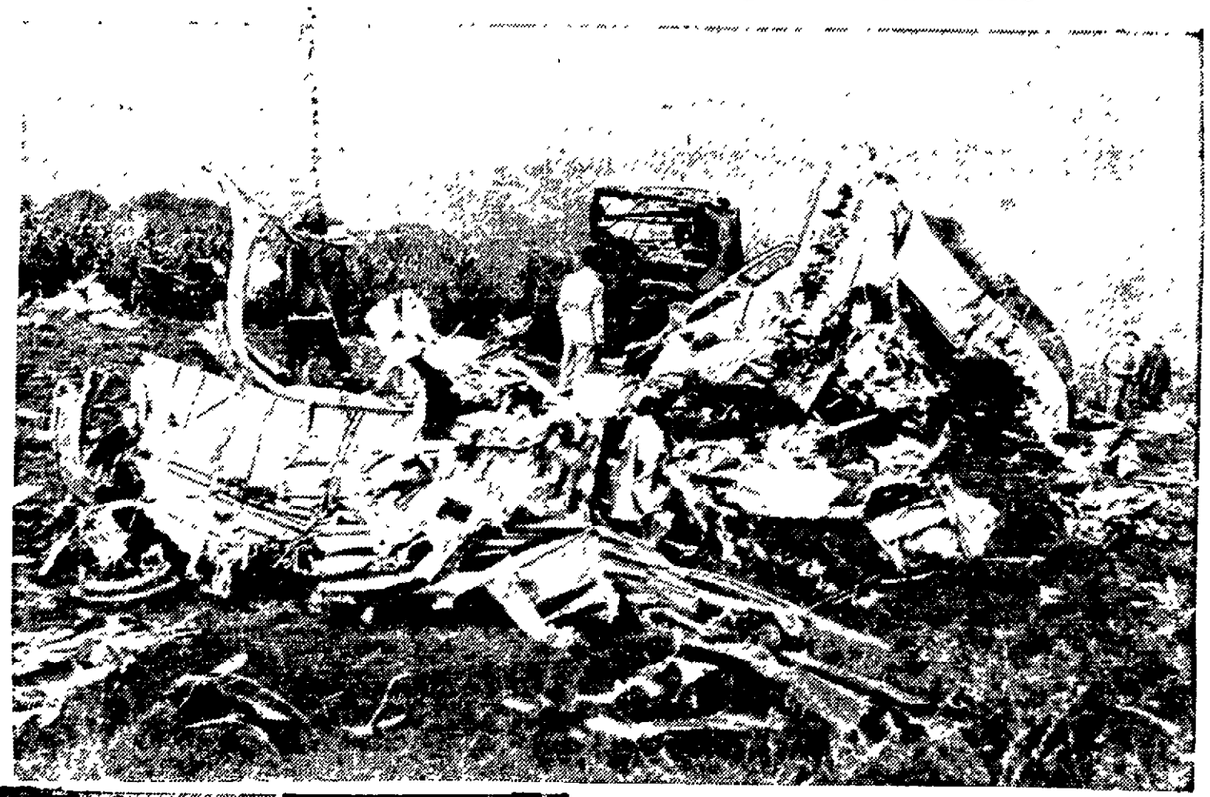
U. S. Air Line Disaster Kills 25 In Mountains



The worst disaster in the history of United States commercial airlines and the first fatal accident in Pennsylvania Central Air Lines' 13-year history occurred when a twin-motored PCA plane clashed at the foot of the Blue Ridge mountains near Lovettsville, Va., killing all 25 persons aboard. This graphic photo shows how wreckage was scattered over an area of nearly a quarter of a mile when an explosion rent the plane after it hit the ground. The crash was the first accident fatal to passengers on U. S. air lines in 17 months. Most prominent of the victims of the Pennsylvania Central Air Lines crash was Senator Ernest Lundeen, upper right, Farmer-Laborite from Minnesota. Lowell Scroggins, lower right, of Washington, was the pilot and Margaret Carson, lower left, of Pittsburgh, was the hostess on the plane. Pictured, upper left, weeping in the arms of her sister, Grace, at Pittsburgh airport after she learned of the crash, is Sylvia Pecori of McKees Rocks, Pa., fiancee of J. J. Pesci, special FBI agent and former Duquesne university athlete, who died in the disaster.

MRS. WALD DIES

Famous Social Worker Friend of Mrs. Roosevelt.

WESTPORT, Conn. —(AP)— Lillian Wald, founder of the famous Henry street settlement in New York City, author, and close friend of President and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, died last night. She was 73.

Miss Wald, who devoted her life to social reform, had been ill for some time at her home, "House on the Pond," here.

The Henry street settlement with which she was closely identified was founded by her shortly after she was graduated from the New York hospital training school for nurses.

The settlement, a community civic, social and health center, has served as a model for similar social work in slum areas throughout the country.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

She was born in Ohio, the daughter of Max and Minnie Wald.

chusetts, Pennsylvania, Maine, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Virginia and Arkansas.

Mr. Roosevelt was expected, according to war department plans, to order out additional guard units in the coming months until the mobilization has been completed. The high command has said that full mobilization of the guard was an essential preliminary for the training of the conscript army contemplated under the Burke-Wadsworth compulsory military service legislation passed by the senate and now pending in the house.

Under the law authorizing yesterday's mobilization order, guardsmen below the rank of captain who have dependents to support will be given 20 days to resign. Those under 18 will be discharged.

Employers are directed to reinstate guardsmen applying for former jobs within 40 days after completing their year's service. Exceptions would be made where reinstatement would be "impossible or unreasonable."

When they report to designated army posts Sept. 16, the guard units will become a part of the army of the United States and will come under complete control of the regular army staff.

Aeronautics Board Plans Hearing on Plane Disaster

SENATE PROBE OF LEESBURG CRASH LIKELY

Sen. M'Carran Asserts Wreck Resulted From Chaos and Inefficiency in CAA.

(By Associated Press)

LEESBURG, Va.—The crash of a Pennsylvania Central airliner in a field near Lovettsville, carrying 25 persons to instant death, brought plans today for a public hearing by the civil aeronautics board and a possible senate probe.

Literally cut in two by the terrific impact, the mangled bodies of the 21 passengers and four crew members were scattered over a 25-acre area when the giant liner rocketed to the foot of the Blue Ridge mountains during a cloudburst Saturday afternoon.

Relatives and friends of the victims, aided by FBI finger-print experts, completed identification of the torn bodies here Sunday in a cemetery chapel converted into a temporary morgue.

Among the victims was Senator Ernest Lundeen (F-L-Minn).

Col. Donald Connolly, CAA administrator, agreed with other officials who inspected the wreckage of the deluxe $129,000 Douglas airliner that there was "nothing definite" on which to fix the cause of the disaster—worst in the history of the nation's commercial aviation.

Both engines apparently were "wide open," J. H. "Slim" Carmichael, vice president of the air line said, but he would not estimate the ship's speed when it crashed a few minutes after leaving Washington for Pittsburgh.

Representatives of the CAA prepared to interview witnesses in the Lovettsville area today in preparation for the board's hearing to be held in Washington, probably Thursday. Dr. John A. Gibson, Loudoun county coroner, will conduct an inquest Sept. 11.

Senator McCarran (D-Nev), told newsmen in Washington the crash resulted from inefficiency and chaos" in the civil aeronautics board and that he was thinking seriously of asking the senate to investigate. "The accident," he declared, "deserves an immediate, emphatic and searching investigation."

Jerome Lederer, director of the board's safety bureau, reported after an inspection of the crash scene that the plane struck the ground at a sharp angle on its nose and richocheted about 100 feet, breaking up as it turned over.

It was the PCA's first fatal accident in 13 years' operations and the country's first fatal crash of a commercial transport plane since March 26, 1939, when eight were killed at Oklahoma City.

Ohio Mail Clerks Seek Bonuses For Veteran Employes

CINCINNATI —(AP)— Members of the Ohio Federation of Postal Clerks prepared to wind up their biennial convention today with election of officers and consideration of a proposal to ask the government for bonuses.

The bonus measure would urge payment of $100 annually to clerks with ten years' standing and $100 a year for each additional five years of service. Secretary John C. Sweeney of Cincinnati, said.

Delegates to the convention, by overriding a vote of their resolutions committee, went on record as favoring a 30-hour work week for postoffice employes. Sweeney described the action as "a matter of policy" in keeping with the objectives of the American Federation of Labor with which the group is affiliated.

E. C. Hallbeck of Chicago vice president of the national organization, told delegates that a condition where federal employes could meet in convention and ask for better working conditions is "the monopoly of democracy."

Hurricane Takes 4 Lives In New Jersey

Elden F. Becker, News-Journal compositor, has just received a letter from his brother, Pilot Officer W. A. Becker of the British Royal Air Force, who is stationed in Bedfordshire, England. It is the first time the Mansfield man has heard from his brother since last January when he left Trinidad and went to England. The brother is a Springfield, O., man who was formerly a pilot for Pan-American Airways. Becker wrote that he has taken part in raids in Germany and has met Nazi planes in combat above England. He recently renounced his American citizenship rights for the sole purpose of receiving a commission in the R. A. F. and taking part in the raids on Germany. "I am going to stay here," he wrote, "until Hitler is destroyed or I am killed."

Getting paid for going fishing with President Roosevelt and by the president himself doesn't happen to most people, but it did recently to Ray Sorrick, Mansfield youth who is serving in the U. S. Navy in Puerto Rico. Young Sorrick was one of the sailors who helped escort the president on his tour of inspection of naval bases in the Caribbean. The president did a little fishing on the side and when he hooked a big dolphin he asked for some help to land it. Sorrick volunteered, and when the fish was safely ashore, the president gave him $5 for the job. "I didn't want to accept, seeing it was the president, but he insisted," young Sorrick wrote his mother, Mrs. Florence Blunk, 335 West Fifth street.

When Bobby Moorhead tangles with Burleigh Drummond today in the finals of the Westbrook Country club golf tournament he hopes his luck with a particular golf ball will hold out. The ball, which he used only once, gave Moorhead a hole-in-one in his semi-final match. In that affair he asked his caddie, Al Hager, to give him his "ace" ball when he came to the 152-yard No. 8 hole. Hager handed Moorhead the pill and Bobby immediately sent it soaring towards the green. It trickled in on the second bounce, and Moorhead put it right back in the bag.

George Satterlee, West Fourth street merchant, has a watermelon which he believes sets some sort of a record for size. The melon, shipped here from Arizona last week and believed to be the largest ever to be brought into Richland county, weighs more than 50 pounds. Satterlee has been keeping it on ice for the past four days and expects to cut it tomorrow.

DIES IN TOLEDO

Mrs. H. G. Parman, Formerly of Mansfield, Succumbs.

Mrs. Henry G. Parman of Los Angeles, Calif., who was formerly Mrs. Effie M. Atton of Mansfield, died Sunday night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Paul Gallagher of Toledo.

Mrs. Parman, a native of Mansfield, had lived here until five years ago when she went to Los Angeles. She was the mother of Robert A. Atton of Detroit, former Richland county clerk of courts.

She had been visiting her daughter in Toledo when she was taken ill.

Surviving are her husband, her son and her daughter; a brother, Charles S. Mosey of Mansfield, and a sister, Mrs. Ella Mosey Keister of Toledo. Joseph and Charles Atton are among six grandchildren surviving.

Funeral services are to be held in Toledo Wednesday and burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

BERLIN'S CLAIM

BERLIN (AP)—Sixty-two British planes shot down in nine days in the German war zone for "the loss of 100 planes over Britain, minimum sources claimed today.

They reported that a Nazi submarine had sunk 56,000 tons of shipping and that it had accounted for 56 more.

O. S. R. INMATES ELUDE CAPTURE

Fugitives Believed to Have Stolen 2 Autos in Flight From Holmes County.

Four inmates who escaped from the Ohio State reformatory Friday night and eluded Holmes county Sheriff Harry Weiss amid gunfire while they were burglarizing a Millersburg feed store, were apparently successful in their dash for freedom.

Weiss reported last night that two of the inmates were seen taking an automobile in Millersburg about 9 p. m. Saturday and that an hour later another car was reported stolen east of the city.

He said he believed that the second machine was taken by the other two fugitives for whom a score of peace officers and state highway patrolmen had searched a 500-acre river bottom tract for more than 12 hours.

The inmates went over the wall at the reformatory Friday night during a heavy fog, stole a car in Lucas and then drove to Millersburg where they were routed from the feed store.

Supt. Arthur L. Glattke identified the fugitives as Arthur Steen, 19, of Wayne county; Frank Smetkowski, 21, Cuyahoga county; Walter Splitt, 19, and Earnest Hartman, 21, both of Summit county.

EX-RICHLAND RESIDENT DEAD

Willis L. Morthland, 71, Stricken, Friends Here Learn.

Word was received here today of the death of Willis LeRoy Morthland, 71, a former resident of Richland county, who died at his ranch home near Sacramento, Calif., Aug. 26.

Born in 1869 in Jackson township, Mr. Morthland lived on a farm five miles out on North Main street road until 1911, when he and his family moved west.

He is survived by his wife, a daughter, one brother, and a sister, Mrs. Dale Yarnell of Mansfield. He had been in failing health the past year.

TRUCK, CONTENTS OF TRUNK STOLEN

Man Reports Theft of Diamond Ring From Room.

A truck and contents of a trunk, which included a diamond ring, were reported stolen last night.

The truck driven by Harvey Dickson, DeSoto market, was parked in a lot back of the Barnes and Schwob company early last evening. When Dickson returned at 10 p. m. to get the truck, it was gone police said.

A. W. Van Auker, 44½ Park avenue west, also reported to police last night that the contents of a trunk including a diamond ring, were taken from his room.

EXCUSE, PLEASE

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—A householder who sounded very upset about the matter telephoned police that he couldn't sleep because a radio in the neighborhood was blaring.

Police dropped in and found the radio in another room of the man's house.

"Tch, tch, tch," they tch'ed, and marked the case "closed."

CONGRESSIONAL LEADERS SPEED ACTION FOR EARLY ADJOURNMENT

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Congressional leaders today appeared aiming at a stepped-up legislative tempo for the next few weeks, with the unannounced hope of getting congress to adjourn and go home some time this month.

Some confirmation of this came from Senator Herring (D.-Ia.) who said leaders were pressing for action on important national defense and tax legislation "so that all of us can go home for a while."

"The public now realizes that the best thing congress could do would be adjourn," Senator Herring said. "There is no reason why we shouldn't be able to quit by Sept. 20."

Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky.) of the senate was cautious about forecasting adjournment but told reporters that "all important legislation should be cleared from the calendar before very long." With White House support, Senator Barkley led an unsuccessful attempt to adjourn congress before the national political conventions.

Senator Harrison (D.-Miss.), who must pilot the controversial excess profits tax bill through the senate, said congress should be able to adjourn by Oct. 1.

Privately most members of congress agree it is clever politics to stay on the job in Washington during a primary election and then get back home to mend political fences before the November finals.

Half a dozen measures were awaiting action in the house or senate before any adjournment or recess move was expected to become public.

The compulsory military training bill, already approved by the senate, was expected to reach a final vote in the house some time next week.

NEW DISPUTE

Two Congresses in Mexico Claim Jurisdiction.

MEXICO CITY —(AP)— Mexico was confronted by one of the strangest situations in her political history today as two rival congresses disputed the right to represent the people and prepared to announce election of their own candidates for president.

In the turbulent national elections last July the government contends the administration candidate, Gen. Manuel Avila Comacho, defeated his independent opponent, Gen. Juan Andreu Almazan.

Supporters of Almazan, now vacationing in the United States, contend he was "overwhelmingly" elected and insist he will take office as the next chief executive on Dec. 1.

Protected by a large concentration of troops, the congressional running mates of Avila Camacho took over the legislative chambers yesterday and heard President Lazaro Cardenas deliver his annual message.

Woman Says She Was Thrown From Car; Held In Jail.

Lettie Kaylor, Cleveland, was in city jail today following arrest by patrolmen at the corner of Park avenue east and Adams last night on a charge of intoxication.

Receiving a call that a woman had been thrown from an automobile on Park avenue east, patrolmen investigated and found Mrs. Kaylor. Mrs. Kaylor said, they reported, that her husband, Glenn, Cleveland, had thrown her from his automobile.

Police said that when they tried to help her find a way to get home she became abusive, so they arrested her.

STORM CAUSES OVER MILLION DOLLAR DAMAGE

Tropical Gale Blows Out to Sea, But New England Fears Return.

(By Associated Press)

CAMDEN, N. J.—Southwestern New Jersey counted at least four dead, hundreds homeless and property damage of well over a million dollars today in the wake of torrential rains that outskirted a hurricane moving off the Atlantic seaboard.

The storm fringe claimed one life in southern Delaware and caused at least $50,000 property damage.

The center of the tropical disturbance, which sent warning signals flying at coastal points from the Virginia Capes to New England, blew out to sea yesterday before reaching the mainland.

Nevertheless, southern New England, watched closely the northeasterly direction of the storm approximately 100 miles off the coast and took precautionary measures. New York appeared out of danger.

Missing the resort communities on the southeastern New Jersey coast, where thousands had gone for Labor Day, the storm struck heaviest early yesterday in five counties, sending creeks and rivers surging over their banks and disrupting communication and holiday travel.

Early today traffic throughout the area was moving meagerly over highway detours and on railroads as crews worked to repair the damage.

A mother and her 18-month-old daughter died at Daretown when Lake Mickle overflowed and flooded their home. One man disappeared in Rancocas creek near Milford and the body of a colored man was taken from a lake at Woodstown.

Despite the holiday, state officials mobilized today to aid the homeless and begin reconstruction work in the worst hit areas—Camden, Gloucester, Salem, Burlington and Cumberland counties.

Along with highway and rail transportation, water, light and communication facilities were disorganized. Principal damage occurred along small streams and lakes.

The entire village of Lumberton was inundated leaving 2,000 homeless. Three hundred others fled from their homes when a dam broke near Camden.

Smyrna was the Delaware storm center as rain-swollen waters broke through Lake Como dam and swept over highways and bridges. One telephone lineman drowned.

FRENCH REFORM

Daring Bathing Suits Ruled Out on Riviera.

VICHY, France —(AP)— The French Rivera is undergoing an enforced reform.

Where once anything went, bathers under new decrees must wear complete bathing suits.

No handball or other games are permitted on the sand, and basking bathers must point their toes sedately toward the sea—never toward the boardwalk.

Entering or leaving the beach, bathers must be fully clothed. No bath robe compromise is allowed. Since there are not enough bath houses on some beaches during the crowded season, many bathers find it necesary to dress and undress on the sands, hiding behind beach parasols or fellow-bathers.

No shorts or other "provocative" costumes are permitted on the promenades at Nice, Cannes or other boardwalk and cafe-studded seafronts.

BROTHER AND SISTER JAILED

A brother and sister were both in city jail today on disorderly conduct charges filed by R. L. Gutterman of the Volunteers of America.

Police were called by Gutterman last night who claimed that some one was in the basement of the Volunteers store on North Main street. A youth, formerly employed by Gutterman, was found there.

The youth was taken to the city jail, where he was placed in a juvenile cell and booked with disorderly conduct.

The youth's mother and sister arrived at the jail while Gutterman was there. Following an argument, the sister slapped Gutterman, police reports said. Gutterman also filed charges of disorderly conduct against the sister. She also was in city jail today.

The Voice of BROADWAY

—By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

Speaking For Myself.

I can remember way back when the great tribute to any celebrity—the final acknowledgement of immortality—was a biography. A book. Something between covers. Now nobody's really immortal until Zanuck or Warner Brothers has done a film about him. . . . Those little boys who entertain the Broadway crowds for pennies late at night are cute, and some of them are very talented, but they block traffic and I always have the feeling they ought to be home in bed.

I wonder why all male visitors to the World's Fair wear white shoes? . . . Celebrities' brothers are usually the biggest bores, but celebrities' sisters are always very nice. . . . I overheard a girl complaining the other day that she couldn't bear to think of Vivien Leigh getting the role of the century as Scarlet O'Hara—and getting Laurence Olivier, too!

I keep promising myself that I will return to Flemington and do a piece about the Hauptmann trial town. I wonder what happened to it after fame took Ed Higgins' creaky old hack down to the station and caught the afternoon train out of town.

I think of the fog blowing down from the Sourlands and the crap game going all around the clock, and the big newsreel cameraman who flattened a fresh Princeton lad with one punch.

I think of the boys singing in Nellie's bar late at night and the sad old drunk who was once a great novelist. I think of the herd of mink coats that abandoned cafe society for a peek at the trial of the century, and I remember the brown felt hat Lynn Fontanne wore pulled over her right eye.

I think of Annie Hauptmann's bleak eyes and how much they looked like those of the cocker spaniel a state trooper owned. I think of Longo, the middle aged messenger boy who played the mandolin, and the spaghetti dinners Damon Runyon financed at his house.

I remember how Clifton Webb's handkerchiefs used to cascade out of his breast pocket, and how razor-edged his trousers were in the courtroom among the working press knees; I remember the beautiful jewels Mrs. Byron Foy wore on her wrists, and how her fingernails exactly matched her rubies.

I think of Adela Rogers St. John's tousled head bending over her typewriter in the courthouse attic, and Fannie Hurst's white face, as white as paper, and Enzo Fiermonte's shoulders coming out of a long, extravagantly low, fast car.

I think of the night the verdict came in, with the big bell tolling and the night turning greenly luminous with the movie men's flares. I think of the red-eyed waitress who fell in love with a reporter, and how she couldn't believe he was only kidding.

I think of the parties at Lloyd Fisher's house and walking back to my boarding house through the moonlight with the streets white and quiet with snow. I think of the kidnaper's shadow black across the window of the jail. I think of the little things when I think of the biggest story I ever covered.

It's always remarkable to me how dreadful a voice can be and get away with it by singing in a foreign language. I mean you, you singers who sing with rhumba hands. . . . It's funny how people always look both ways before crossing even one way streets. I guess it's a carry-over from the childhood days when their mothers warned them: "Always look both ways before you cross the street."

Looks like this will be a season for the 'intime" night spots—le Ruban Bleu, the Algonquin Supper Club, Spivy's, and now 21 rumored about to put in entertainment late at night. Heavens, there won't be a sophisticated diseuse, a piano team, or a male mimic out of work!

People are always making snide remarks about Brooklyn accents, but Charlotte Manson, who plays at No. 1 Deb on the air, is one of the few ether actresses whose voice really sounds Park Avenue—and she hails from Brooklyn!

There are days when I loathe telephones. . . . "Foreign Correspondent" made me realize all over again how wonderful it is to have Robert Benchley on the screen. There's just something about his face that could make you chuckle.

I love to ride on ferryboats. And whenever I think of ferryboats I think of Joe E. Lewis' brother who stole one and now has a hot ferryboat on his hands.

I wonder what's become of baby talk? You don't even hear babies talking it anymore. . . . I hate orangy-red lipsticks. . . . I can't wait for Jack Harris' orchestra to open at the Stork club. At the time of the Coronation, I remember he had the only good band in London. . . . I love those pencils that unravel into little paper shavings. . . . I am about in the mood to see a play full of daggers, secret panels, bodies falling out of closets, and shrieks in the dark.

I wonder when Garbo is going to start making Madame Curie—or is that off? . . . I wish the Hollywood press-agents were handling the presidential campaigns. It would be so much more fun.

Can't think of anything I dislike more than eating alone, unless it's eating alone on a railroad train. . . . I find it very relaxing to sit on a Fifth Ave. bustop and watch New York drift by. . . . Those lighted green trees outside the Cafe Pierre are very pretty.

This rain reminds me that I don't own an umbrella. I used to leave all my umbrellas in phone booths, so now I don't carry them any more. If I could just reduce all my problems to those terms, life would be very simple.

REPEATED NAZI RAIDS STOPPED BY RAF FLIERS

Force attacked objectives on the German-occupied coast of France. Observers on the English coast reported flashes of exploding bombs from Cap Gris Nez to Boulogne.

(There were three indications of other British bombing forays during the night. Berlin had a 47-minute air raid alarm; German radio stations in Leipzig and Breslau went off the air, usual sign of the approach of raiders; and Switzerland had two alarms, as she had on other nights when the RAF bombed targets in northern Italy.)

Observers saw two factors spurring the aerial warfare toward a quick climax:

1.—Today marked the beginning of a six-day period of high tides, most favorable for troop landings from shallow-draft boats.

2.—Adoption by the Germans of "dispersion" raids in order to take a heavier toll of fighters and weaken Britain's outer defense ring, even though bomb damage is much smaller.

The best weather for a Nazi invasion attempt in the time remaining this year should come between no. and the equinox Sept. 21, after which the Germans will run increasing risks of a stormy channel and sea-sick soldiers. Should such an attempt not be made or, being made, fail, the British contend their production speed-up during the winter will bring them even with Germany in quantity of planes.

The Luftwaffe began using new tactics over the week-end. Where before they had sent huge bomber formations in daylight raids, they now use fewer bombers with massed fighter plane escorts.

Once the raiders reach the coast, they split up into small groups and fly off on different courses.

This forces the RAF fighters to spread out to meet them.

Though cutting their bombing power, the Germans have reduced their losses proportionately. Official British figures for the week-end make the rate five Germans downed for two British, compared to the claimed 5 to 1 ratio of mid-August. The ratio yesterday alone was less than 2 to 1, with 25 Germans reported downed to 15 British craft lost.

The British say the Luftwaffe obviously is capable of much heavier attacks than it now is making. The big question in such an air war would be which side could exhaust the other.

Prime Minister Winston Churchill expressed the British feeling about it in a message to the nation's bomber command that "command of the air is being gradually and painfully * * * wrested from the Nazi criminals."

The government announced the principal Nazi bombing objective yesterday "may have been to attack our airdromes," but said "only very slight" damage was done. Some persons were killed in Kent and Surrey, scattered districts in the London area were hit, and planes were reported during the night over southern England, the Midlands and Wales.

On the other side of the picture, the air ministry reported Saturday night raids on an airdrome, airplane engine factory and "lighting installations" at Berlin, oil tanks at Vlaardingen, the Netherlands, and other targets that included the Nazi long-range gun batteries on the French coast.

An estimated 50 bombers and fighters composed the Nazi force which attacked Thames estuary points this morning. They changed their course in the face of a curtain of anti-aircraft fire and RAF fighter attacks.

One and possibly two bombers were accounted for by the fighters. It was at the conclusion of this 15-minute battle that London's sirens shrieked their warning.

At least one more Nazi craft was shot down by a Hurricane in the battle which developed over southeast England.

The plane crashed in flames after a long duel. Later a parachute was seen descending further inland, a sign another German plane probably had been downed.

Coast observers considered this attack less "determined" than the Luftwaffe's usual morning forays.

Two black four-engined monster bombers flew in the center of the swarm which came roaring over the southeast coast.

"I never have seen such a tightly-packed formation," said one observer.

Then anti-aircraft fire forced the formation to fan out.

In the early morning raids relays of German planes attacked seven coastal towns for seven hours early today.

Fires which damaged houses was said not to have caused any serious casualties.

British reports asserted low-diving planes machine-gunned firemen at one point.

As reports on British defense action continued to filter in it was believed five raiders were brought down in the southeast battle zone outside the London area, raising the morning's toll to six and possibly seven.

320 CHILDREN ON LINER SAVED

in praising the youngsters, saying they "behaved splendidly" and acted like "experienced seamen."

Geoffrey H. Shakespeare, secretary for oversea trade, who went to the northern British port where the children were landed, said:

"The spirit of the children was magnificent. Most of the boys who spoke to me want to go to Canada on the next boat. We'll have to consult their parents first, of course, but these children will have preference."

Six life-boat drills had prepared the children thoroughly, so they knew their stations when the alarm roused them from bed.

Some were in pajamas, some half-dressed, and others had only overcoats on, but all marched quietly to their stations and though the ship already was beginning to list they showed no signs of panic, the government said.

While rescue ships stood by, the lifeboats were filled and lowered, and the transfer proceeded smoothly.

Twelve-year-old Douglas Greer of Newcastle said he saw the hole the torpedo made when his lifeboat was being lowered.

"It was five yards wide," he said. "When the rescue ships picked us up, they swung the little children up in fruit baskets. But we bigger ones climbed up a rope ladder. We had to hold on tight because the ship was rocking."

Most of the children, selected by the children's overseas reception board, came from state air schools in the industrial areas or London and cities and towns in Scotland and the Midlands.

Staff Complete Y.W.C.A. Program To Get Under Way

Plans for the new year at the Y. W. C. A. will get under way this week when the new working staff takes over.

Miss Lucy Wakeland, of Indianapolis, appointed general secretary in July to fill the vacancy left when Miss Margaret West resigned, was to arrive today. She left a similar position in North Tonowanda, N. Y., to accept the Mansfield offer.

Miss Norma Sheer, Chagrin Falls, will also arrive late Monday. She replaces Miss Violet Richardson, who left early in the summer to be married. Miss Sheer, recently graduated from Bowling Green State university, will be in charge of group work.

The Y. W. has been inactive for the past two months, with the exception of the room registry and free employment bureau, which has been in charge of Miss Margaret McBride. Miss Mary Strater is office clerk.

Classes and group work will be outlined early in September and the program will get under way about the middle of the month.

BRIDE INJURED

Wedding Night In Hospital Follows Auto Wreck.

MARIETTA—(AP)—A bride of a few hours, Mrs. John Uhrin of Jamestown, Pa., spent her wedding night in a hospital after a car bearing a wedding party of five plunged over a 15-foot embankment on State Route 7 near here.

Other occupants of the automobile escaped injury. The wedding party was en route home after the marriage Saturday in Russell, Ky. Authorities said the bridegroom apparently fell asleep at the wheel.

MAINE WARNED STORM COMING

Gales and High Tides On Way Weather Bureau Says.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The weather bureau warned today that "winds will reach gale force on the eastern Maine coast this afternoon with high tides."

Vessels in the path of the storm were cautioned.

The impending disturbance on the eastern Maine coast was attributed to a tropical storm centered at 1:30 a. m. (EST) about 60 miles south of Nantucket and moving north-northeastward about 30 miles per hour "attended by winds of near-hurricane force over a small area."

veterans that they must inspire the rest of America as to the horrors of war.

"Let's do all we can to keep America out of war," he urged, "but let's have the power to protect ourselves so that we can say to aggressor nations that if they set foot on American soil that we will fire another shot heard around the world."

He warned against persons attempting to undermine the government calling them "termites," and urging the former soldiers to keep their eyes open "for those who bore from within."

The banquet last night climaxed the second day of the reunion which will be brought to a close today with election of officers and selection of the 1941 convention city.

C. L. Van Derau, president of the Chamber of Commerce, presided as toastmaster at the dinner party, introducing the guests which included Mayor William J. Locke, Harold E. Snell, Youngstown, president of the association; Mrs. Frank Simlik, Youngstown, president of the women's division; Albert L. (Capt.) Allen, president of the Albert C. Gerke chapter of Mansfield, who headed the Mansfield committee on arrangements; R. B. Gardner, retiring state commander of the American Legion, and R. N. James, commander of McVey Post.

Snell read telegrams of congratulations from both Gen. John J. Pershing, chief of staff of the A. E. F. during the war, and Gen. C. S. Farnsworth, who headed the 37th division while in action.

Compliments City

Snell complimented the Mansfield group for an "outstanding reunion," and the city for its general hospitality.

At an executive committee meeting during the afternoon, he reported a 15 per cent increase in membership during the past year, boosting the roster to 2,100 members.

The veterans will meet at 10 a. m. today and are expected to select Cleveland as the 1941 convention city and name Harold O. Roth of Cincinnati, vice president of the association, as head of the organization.

after being struck by an automobile near Five Points on Route 30, near Crestline.

Miss Miller suffered cuts and possible internal injuries.

Mrs. Maynard Stillman, Baltimore, Md., received treatment for dislocation of her right elbow and other first aid at Crestline Emergency hospital Saturday following an accident on route 30-N, west of Crestline.

The car, which was driven by Maynard Stillman, skidded on the wet pavement and turned over. Their car was badly damaged.

An accident at the intersection of South Diamond street and Altamont avenue resulted in the arrest of Steve Grassel, Mansfield, who was in city jail today charged with driving while intoxicated.

Driving south on Diamond street Grassel turned right on Altamont, sideswiping a car driven by Thomas A. Shocker, also of Mansfield, police said. Grassel did not stop following the accident.

Shocker notified police of the collision and Grassel was found later by officers near Mansfield cemetery. Both cars were damaged.

Works Hard to Open Safe, Finds No Money In It.

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—This is Detective Lieut. Lynn Slaten's story:

A burglar broke into an automobile accessories store and worked laboriously at a safe's combination. Finally he switched on a light.

The combination was on the safe door, where the firm pasted it after a previous robbery attempt. The prowler opened it, found only small change and some record books. He left his note:

"Since you keep no money in your safe to speak of, why in hell do you lock it? Sorry to have caused any trouble. Will avoid your dump in the future."

FOUR CHILDREN DIE IN BLAZE

Left Alone In Home, Killed Without Awakening.

GRACE, Idaho — (AP) — Four small children died as fire leveled the four-room frame home in which they slept. "They apparently were not even awakened by the fire," said their grand uncle, Deputy Sheriff Andrew Adams.

They were Ray Adams, 6, Dart, 5, Fern, 3 and Elzina Arlene, 1½, children of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Adams.

Deputy Adams said the fire was discovered shortly after 3 a. m. Sunday by three youths whose car had broken down nearby. He said the father and two other men had left the home a little while before. The mother was not at home.

SWISS BOMBED

Defense Guns Open Fire on Trespassing Plane.

BERN, Switzerland —(AP)— An unidentified bomber, one of a number of night-raiding warplanes which kept Switzerland awake with a series of air raid alarms during the night, dropped bombs on Swiss soil near the former Austrian frontier in the east and drew heavy Swiss anti-aircraft fire.

A Swiss high command communique this morning did not immediately identify the invaders. But the government several times had protested to London over violation of Swiss territory by British planes raiding northern Italy and southern Germany.

The bombs dropped by the one plane landed in fields and did little harm.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 2, 1940.

What many voters would appreciate during the progress of this campaign is more light and less heat.

The chances of drawing a 13-trump bridge hand are one in forty billion deals—in case you have aspirations along that line.

A western oil man, with quickly acquired wealth, is putting up a new home with 11 bedrooms and 11 baths—apparently recalling the inconveniences of tourist-home stopovers.

American Labor's Good Fortune

AS AMERICA again pauses to pay tribute to Labor, it is in a spirit of thanksgiving that the people of this country contemplate their good fortune in holding citizenship in the United States, rather than anywhere else in the world.

While conditions here may not be all that could be desired, and there must be unceasing efforts toward improvement, they are so infinitely better than in practically all other countries that comparisons would seem ill-becoming.

There have been many changes in the world since last Labor day. The year 1939, as a whole, showed relatively stable world labor conditions, with rising employment and wages in many countries. In the United States, Canada and France, employment was higher in 1939 than in 1938, although still below that of 1929. In Germany, Denmark, Great Britain, Hungary, Italy and the Union of South Africa, it rose above the 1929 levels.

In the dictatorship countries, of course, labor organizations had already been destroyed and all labor was completely subject to government control, but in some other countries trade unions had made advances in membership.

Then came the war in Europe, and the transition from peace to a war basis did not increase productive employment. On the contrary, hundreds of thousands of workers in invaded countries found themselves homeless and starving, thousands of men, women and children were brutally slaughtered and millions became helpless and hopeless refugees.

What may happen in the United States in coming weeks, months and through the next year, cannot now be foreseen, but it may well be the earnest pledge of every true American, on this Labor day, that he will do everything in his power to encourage internal amity, so that this nation can move toward whatever lies in store, with confidence in the loyalty and support of all who are privileged to be American citizens —or who are permitted to enjoy the security which residence here provides.

Note—Turn now to the Merry-Go-Round article (upper right corner of this page) in which Pearson and Allen give some interesting information about the way in which labor is co-operating with the government in the present national emergency.

Common Interests are Involved

THOSE Americans who have taken it for granted that the United States is sufficiently powerful to defend itself against the world have had their complacency shaken by recent disclosures.

Many did not know, for instance, how much dependence had been placed in the British navy, or how closely the United States and Great Britain had been linked in holding respect for the Monroe Doctrine.

It is now becoming more generally realized that the movement of this country and Canada toward unification of defense plans, coupled with a policy of all possible aid to Great Britain, "short of war," is moving the United States rapidly toward complete alignment with Britain's war against totalitarian aggression.

A neutral diplomat, speaking of negotiations now going on as the first step toward a military alliance with the British countries, says: "The plain truth of the matter is that neither Britain nor the United States has a powerful friend left anywhere in the world. It behooves them to get together and make the best of the sorry situation."

It was a similar principle that drove the early colonists together when they organized the American union. As Franklin remarked, it was a question of hanging together lest they hang separately.

New Zealand's Heroic Role

ANY IDEA that England is carrying on her defensive war alone is not borne out by facts. She furnishes, of course, the largest unit of military and economic power, but the dominions and colonies are giving liberal and increasing help.

There is New Zealand, for instance, pouring a steady stream of help from her isolated position half-way around the world. There are only 350,000 adult males altogether in that country, and 81,000 of them have already volunteered for the army. That is nearly one out of four men of all ages. She has already sent a division of troops and more than 600 airplane pilots, and expects, starting next year, to supply 4,000 pilots a year to the Royal Air Force.

Most of New Zealand's exportable foodstuffs and all of her wool go to Britain, and the little country's war expenditure this year is about $160,000,000. It's a notable showing for a country so far from the front, with a population of only 1,626,486.

Mild-Mannered Japan

JAPAN is very righteous now in her expressed intentions about the Dutch Indies. A New York correspondent of a Tokyo newspaper paints an idyllic picture of relations between the two countries. Batavia is the only place in the world, he says, "where the West meets the East without friction."

He adds that a Japanese invasion of the East Indies is not only unthinkable, but would be to the distinct disadvantage of Japan, which now enjoys there all the trade and migration rights that she could possibly want.

Maybe so. But Japan has done many things in the Far East lately which were "unthinkable."

Friendly Air Bridge

THERE has been much international radio propaganda, but here is something different. The World Wide Broadcasting Foundation has established an "Atlantic Friendship Bridge" on the air waves to cheer the British people in their "hour of trial." Sympathetic and reassuring programs are broadcast on the Foundation's short wave station in Boston.

There is evidence that this "helpfulness and reassurance" will be appreciated by British listeners. When a person or a nation is making a gallant and exhausting fight, an occasional word of assurance or a friendly pat on the back helps considerably.

Are Modern Youngsters Hamstrung?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

SHE was ten and, for the moment, anything but a treat to her peeved parent. So he gave her five pounds (about twenty-five dollars) and told her to be off. Whereupon she tied her nightgown in an untidy bundle to the back of her bicycle and proceeded to spend a delightful week wandering hither and yon through the English countryside.

Four years later this same father gave her one hundred pounds and return ticket, and chased her off to a summer's ecstatic, unchaperoned trip through Norway, letting her go where and when she pleased, sharing gay hours with chance-come companions whom she "kept in their place" as firmly as though she had been a "grand dame", instead of an unguarded motherless babe in a ragged dress, with no standards save those she hewed out of her own necessities.

Seems incredible by our modern American standards, doesn't it? Yet to I. A. R. Wylie, famous British authoress, there was nothing remarkable about it. She discusses it all quite casually in her remarkable magazine article—"I Hated My Father." For which she had ample reason. But she bears no resentment, for the surprising liberty he allowed her as a snub-nosed infant. To the contrary, she believed it to have been a normal and valuable training. And frankly thinks that other youngsters should be allowed and expected to be as independent.

"My experience has left me," she says, "with the conviction that modern children are really retarded children. You have to go way back in history to find children who are really up-to-date. In Elizabeth's time young men in their teens commanded armies.

Elizabeth herself at the age of eleven was a woman of the world, fighting for her life and speaking her mind eloquently and accurately in several languages. They hadn't long lives in those days and they couldn't afford to waste them.

"Nowadays we take twenty-one years at least to prepare ourselves for a possible fifty years of effective activity. It is all out of focus. At ten any normal child should be fully capable of managing its life under all normal adult circumstances. By fifteen formal education, except for the genuine student, should be finished.

"It has never seemed to me surprising that "underprivileged" children should so often scramble into high places. In the gutter one has to start the fight for life with one's first breath."

A startling viewpoint? Perhaps. And yet I'm thinking back to days when I followed spurred heels down ill-laid planks . . . in childish adoration of the argonauts who conquered the west. Studying their faded daguerreotypes, one might suspect their bearded faces and hair-trigger eyes had been tempered by a world of experience. But usually those impressive whiskers masked the lusty curiosity and courage of nineteen-year-old youngsters.

To every weatherbeaten old veteran and mellowed grandmother of that Covered Wagon trail, there were ten sixteen-year-old brides with babes at their breasts . . . slender young saplings of boys and girls starry-eyed . . . fiery-hearted. How else could they have endured the horror of that trek through hell? Fremont himself, Pathfinder extraordinary, was only a yearling when he headed for the sunset—a young maverick with a fourteen-year-old bride!

Youth won the west. Youth dumped the tea into Boston Harbor . . . shivered and laughed through Valley Forge. Hot-blooded, dreaming Youth burned, bled and battled behind every great landmark of history. Why can we not wear their discarded armor today . . . or fit full grown women figures into their slender calicos?

BECAUSE THE HEROIC SPIRITS WHO ONCE WORE THOSE CLOTHES WERE ONLY CHILDREN!

And now Young America refers to itself as "Us Kids" at thirty and thirty-five! Postpones marriage at twenty-nine because they're "not ready to settle down." Goes childless for fear they'll lose their adolescent shapes!

But it's not their fault it's yours and mine.

Youth would take the trail—if we'd let it . . . and tackle whatever trouble lay along that trail. Youth is as avid for life as it was in red-headed Elizabeth's time.

BUT WE HAMSTRING IT WITH OUR FEARS . . . WE STUNT IT WITH OUR CODDLING . . . AND STRANGLE IT WITH OUR POSSESSIVENESS.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Thursday, Sept. 2, 1920.

Charter was officially presented to newly organized Kiwanis club at banquet held at Masonic temple.

Word was received of the death in Barberton of Charles A. Young, 29, former Mansfield resident.

Eight Mansfield Boy Scouts arrived home after bicycle trip which covered 950 miles.

President John W. Hoffman was speaker at meeting of Mansfield's newly organized Ohio Wesleyan Alumni association.

Alvin theater (East Third street) was being renovated and redecorated in advance of re-opening.

Miss Delia Hoffman and Menan Weil were married by Rev. F. W. Rohlfing.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Monday, Sept. 2, 1935.

Mansfield Tigers clinched the second half championship of the Ohio State baseball league in Tiffin.

There was a large attendance at the Labor Day dance at Westbrook Country club.

Mrs. Lenora Arter, 56, died.

Fifty complaints were received at police headquarters of thefts made over holiday week-end.

Announcement was made of the coming marriage of Miss Florence Matton and Wilbur Campbell.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Atlanta, Ga., a vital stronghold of the Confederacy, was captured by a Union army on Sept. 2, 1864, after a four-month campaign.

Words of the Wise

There are three classes of people in the world. The first learn from their own experiences—these are wise, the second learn from the experiences of others—these are the happy; the third neither learn from their own experience nor the experience of others—these are fools.

How Labor Day Made Its Start

By JEAN NEWTON

TWO THOUSAND odd years ago, when Timothy first enunciated the doctrine that the laborer is worthy of his hire, did he envision a time when every year upon a certain day, millions the world over would let their tools lie, factories would not open, stores and counting houses would remain closed, and the man and woman who works would spend the day in conscious tribute to themselves—Labor Day?

In the United States, the suggestion for a special holiday—the first Monday in September—in honor of labor was made over half a century ago by one Peter J. McGuire, president of the United Brotherhood of Joiners of America and a leading figure in the labor organization known as the Knights of Labor.

His agitation interested the Central Labor Union in New York City which voted for a parade on September 5, 1882, upon which was held the first Labor Day celebration in America — after which it was decided to observe the occasion annually.

The first state officially to recognize Labor Day as a holiday was Colorado, in 1887; it was quickly followed by New York, New Jersey and Oregon, and eventually by the rest of the states and territories, and by Canada.

This Is Ohio

ONE of the earliest records remaining of early fruit growing activities in Ohio is a list of 23 grafts sent from Connecticut to William R. Putnam of Marietta in 1796.

Dr. Jared P. Kirtland was another early experimenter. Importing fine varieties of fruit from New Jersey, he made many improvements in cherries which proved of great importance.

Other important contributors to the fruit industry were Dr. John A. Warder, N. Ohmer, George W. Campbell and their associates who belonged to the Ohio Pomological society which was organized in 1852 and later became the state horticultural society.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Labor's Share In National Defense; Self Discipline Well Maintained

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Perhaps the most significant phase of the defense program to date is the harmony and co-operation existing on the labor front.

Amid an anvil chorus of charges and counter-charges that business, the administration and congress have been sitting down and delaying, labor is doing its part peacefully and efficiently. It has demanded no special legislative concessions, has not sought to profit out of the emergency.

This record is all the more noteworthy because the course of labor had been stormy in recent years. Strikes were almost a daily occurrence, while the AFL and CIO frequently fought each other even more fiercely than they did employers.

Two factors are responsible for labor's great defense record:

One is self-discipline. At the start of the emergency, responsible labor chiefs such as Sidney Hillman, Phil Murray, and Van Bittner of the CIO; together with Dan Tobin, Dan Tracy, and John P. Coyne of the AFL, agreed among themselves that labor had to put its house in order if it was to escape repressive attacks.

Continued civil war and industrial disturbances, these leaders feared, would play squarely into the hands of big business elements always on the alert for an excuse to curb unions. The passage by the house last spring, under the spur of the biased Smith committee, of a bill emasculating the National Labor Relations Act was striking evidence of what might happen unless labor watched its step.

Policy Committee.

THE second factor was the Labor Policy Advisory Committee set up by Defense Commissioner Hillman to administer this policy of self-discipline. Made up of sixteen able, conscientious AFL, CIO and Railroad Brotherhood heads, this body virtually has become the real labor department of the government.

In this the committee has had the full co-operation of Secretary Frances Perkins. Although it has meant further submergence of her authority, she has placed all the agencies of her department at the services of the committee and has done everything in her power to aid it.

As a result, the Labor Policy Advisory Committee has maintained peace within labor ranks and between labor and industry.

When A. D. (Denny) Lewis, brother of John L. and head of a fledgling CIO construction workers union, attempted to move into New York to fight the AFL's long established building trades unions, Hillman peremptorily ordered him to scram. Denny did.

When Communist elements engineered a strike in a vital defense plant, Tracy of the AFL and Murray of the CIO stopped it dead in its tracks and forced the ouster of the Reds from offices in the union. At the same time the two men negotiated an agreement with the employer giving the workers important gains.

In all their dealings with industry the labor chiefs have never backed down on what they considered fundamental union rights. They have made their own followers toe the mark, but they also have required employers to play ball.

Note—William Green has not meddled in the affairs of the committee, but John L. Lewis, who bitterly resented Hillman's appointment as a defense commissioner, has sniped at him behind the scenes. Recently Lewis sent a letter criticizing Hillman to the head of every CIO union and released it to the press before Hillman got a copy.

48-Hour Week.

THERE is one very important concession made by labor toward aiding national defense which has not leaked out to the public in general. It is the fact that in war department arsenals labor has surrendered its much treasured 40-hour week, and has accepted a 48-hour week.

This came about through the suggestion of Henry L. Stimson, new Republican secretary of war. Stimson, genuinely worried over the slow production of guns, powder, and other munitions, called in Sidney Hillman, labor member of the National Defense Commission, and asked his advice regarding stepping up production in the three chief army arsenals.

Hillman went into the matter carefully and agreed to increasing hours to 48 a week, also the use of three shifts per day. This meant hiring 8,000 extra skilled workmen, which Hillman helped to secure. The war department is now extremely pleased, and there have been no kicks from labor.

AFL Secretary.

AT THE AFL convention in Cincinnati last year, the inner moguls firmly retired Frank Morrison, who had been national secretary for nearly half a century. The 80-year-old AFL secretary resisted the move, but the leaders had decided to replace him and that was that.

But if they thought they were getting rid of him, they were wrong.

Although retired on the comfortable competence of $8,000 a year, Morrison continues to occupy a spacious office on the ground floor of AFL headquarters. And his chief occupation seems to be to keep an eye on the conduct of George Meany, his successor.

Note—Though Morrison continues to take a lively interest in AFL affairs, there has been one important change in his activities since retiring. To the jubiliation of AFL clerks and stenographers he no longer prowls through the offices to catch them throwing away pencil stubs.

Stenogs Wanted!!

YOUNG LADY, can you run a typewriter? Step up, you are needed in the national defense. All the talk is about men—men for the army, men for the navy, men for shipyards. But women are being recruited, too. The national defense is incomplete without them.

In July of last year, the government hired 430 "female" stenographers and typists. In July of this year, the number was tripled —1,500. And still they come.

The various defense agencies are calling for stenographers so fast that old line agencies are losing some of their best and speediest workers. Executives returning from August holidays find their stenogs fled to national defense at higher wages.

The turn-over is tremendous. The civil service commission "certified" no less than 3,000 stenographers and typists in a recent month. And more thousands are moving up on the civil service lists.

Last Friday and Saturday, the commission staged a new exam for stenographers and typists from all over the country. When the lists were closed for this exam, at mid-August, the total of applicants had reached the amazing figure of 135,000.

Conscription may be necessary to fill the ranks of the army, but voluntary recruiting brings out the stenogs.

Note—Salaries paid by the government are: for senior stenographer, $1,620; for junior stenographer, $1,440; for senior typist, $1,440; for junior typist, $1,260.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Is this unpredictable city about to witness another wave of bathtub and lovers' lane murders such as characterized New York during the middle thirties and which reached an all-time high in brutality with the death of Nancy Titterton, pretty young wife of a radio executive, who was slain by a madman in her Beekman place apartment, near East river?

Could be. The police have come up with two such cases in recent days which fit right into the picture. Up in the Bronx a young wife, barely 22 and the mother of two children, was found slain. Less than 24 hours later, in a hidden lovers' lane in the Dyker Beach section of Brooklyn, the body of a pretty, 19-year-old waitress was found. The body was mangled and badly burned.

This girl was a Norwegian and worked in the children's ward of the Norwegian hospital. Her father was an unemployed house painter. Her salary was the family's only income.

IN THE girl's pocketbook they found the clipping of a poem by Philip Freneau, "The Fading Rose," and the photograph of a young man. That was all. There weren't many clues. But the police expressed confidence in a quick solution. The amazed and grief-stricken people who lived in the girl's neighborhood said it was the work of a sex maniac.

It may be pertinent to mention that just a day before this girl was killed a New York magistrate, in one of the Manhattan courts, expressed the opinion that indecent literature on the public newsstands was contributing heavily to adolescent and even to adult delinquencies, and that unless it was curbed the people could expect an upswing in crime. Mayor LaGuardia promptly announced a "black list" of magazines, many nationally famous and noted for their startling revelations of sertified incidents in the lives of anonymous authors The publishers of these magazines indignantly denied that their publications had anything to do with the formation of bad habits and demanded to know why they were being "persecuted" when all of the material in these publications had already passed the postal regulations of the United States.

WHAT is to be done about the matter has not been announced. A famous distributor of these magazines said he did not intend to ignore the mayor's warnings, but he did say that, at the moment at least, he had no intention of removing any of the listed magazines from the company's newsstands.

We mention this purely as a coincidence, because the magistrate's prophecy was hardly in print before the second of the newest atrocity murders was being flashed into the police offices of Manhattan and Brooklyn.

Stories of this nature fill many volumes of New York's history during the last decade. There was Veronica Gedeon, a beautiful artists' model, who was slain; there were the famous Dot King and Starr Faithful mysteries, both blunt, brutal and sordid. Neither has been solved by the police, and there are those who believe they never will be solved.

Another personality on Broadway who goes in for the single name, like Annabella and Garbo, is Yvette, 17-year-old singing star of NBC. Yvette was born and brought up in New Orleans.

A Farmer's Diary

Future Leader

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

HE IS, perhaps, a typical 19-year-old farm boy, sober and industrious. I overtook him the other day along a country road and took him on my car. His thick blond hair was wet with perspiration, his cheeks flushed from exercise. He had a broad mouth with firm lips, and a tall strong build. When I asked him, he admitted shyly that he had walked seven miles.

"I been workin' over at my uncle's for two months," he said. "I mighta taken the bus, but it don't come till 10. I'll get home two hours sooner afoot and save the fare. I'll need every penny to go to college. I've got five hogs and two nice steers to sell in November. With what I've earned this summer and last, it'll be enough to pay my way at the state university for a year."

"What course will you take?"

"Forestry and agriculture. I like to be out in the woods and fields, and I like animals. I may try teachin' for a year or two. Seems to me lots of kids don't half appreciate what they've got at home on the farm. I'd like to help 'em find out."

We came to the top of a high hill and he pointed down to an oldtime, well kept house and barn among tall trees. "There's home," he said proudly. "I always like to stop here and look down at it. There's mother now—see, behind the milkhouse, putting the pails up to air? She'll be surprised to see me at this early hour. I see by the chimney smoke that she's got a fire in the wood stove. That means she's bakin' bread. Boy, will a crust of a loaf taste good after that walk!"

I watched him stride down the lane and pause to stroke the extended nose of a little black mare along the pasture fence. I saw his mother straighten her bent shoulders at sight of him and wipe her face with the corner of her apron before she kissed him. Then his muscular brown arm went over her shoulder, and they went into the summerhouse.

"How good it seems," I thought, "to find a youth who knows a good thing when he has it. Rural leadership must come from such boys as this."
